THREE LOSE LIVES IN SANTA ANA

LEGION BOYS CALLED OUT FOR PATROL

Property Damage Here Expected to Be in Neighborhood of $1,000,000

STREETS PATROLLED

Buildings Torn Asunder and Business Section is Littered With Bricks

WITH SOLDIERS and members of the American Legion patrolling the streets of the downtown section of the city, Santa Ana, victim of the worst earthquake in its history, was today, virtually under martial law, except that orders were being taken from the police instead of the militia.

Three persons were killed in the first quake, which struck the city at 5:55 p. m., tearing buildings asunder, and hurling bricks and debris throughout the business section of the city. The property loss is expected to run in the neighborhood of $1,000,000, although engineers and builders declared that figure was merely a guess at this time.

Casualty List

Those killed were:
Jess Ellison, 40, Oakland.
Mrs. Jess Ellison, 32.
Earl Wilson Adamson, 25, of 1017 North Ross street.

The Ellisons were killed when they ran out of the cafeteria at the Rossmore hotel, just as a fireball at the top tumbled to the street. They were buried under three feet of brick and mortar.

Both were hurriedly dug out by eyewitnesses to the tragedy. Ellison had been instantly killed and Mrs. Ellison died on her way to the Orange County hospital. They had come to Santa Ana yesterday morning and had registered at the Rossmore hotel. They were on their way to dinner at the time of the quake and had just gone inside the cafeteria. When they felt the shock, both darted for the door. The interior of the cafe was not damaged.

At exactly the same time, Adamson was killed. He was walking down the street in front of the Richelieu Hotel near Fourth and Ross streets. A cornice from the top of the building plunged to the sidewalk, killing him instantly.

Adamson, a mechanic, lived at 1017 North Ross street. He was on his way home at the time. His body was removed to the Harrell and Brown funeral parlors. The bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Ellison were taken to the Winbiger funeral home.

Cornerer Earl Abbey declared that an inquest would be held over all three bodies, but said he did not know when the inquisition would be called.

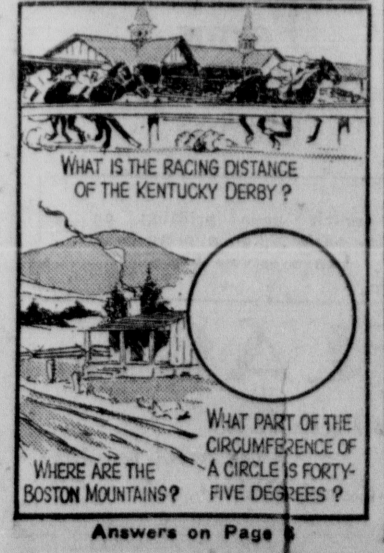

Garden Grove Casualty

The only other death in the county from the quake occurred at Garden Grove, Virginia Pollard, 13, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Pollard, was instantly killed when a wall at the high school caved in, almost burying her. She was reported to have been sitting on the school steps at the time, planning a freshman party with several other girls. She was a freshman in the Garden Grove high school.

Two other girls there with her at the time were slightly injured.

ORANGE COUNTY LOSS WILL RUN INTO MILLIONS

Huntington Beach and Garden Grove Hardest Hit of Communities

DAMAGE WHICH will run into millions of dollars was caused in communities in Orange county outside of Santa Ana, where damage was great, by a series of severe earth shocks which struck Southern California last night and which were still continuing today.

Reports gathered by The Register from practically every section of the county show high property losses. All communities in the county could not be reached because of the disruption of communication in several instances.

Huntington Beach was particularly hard hit by the temblors. Anaheim and Garden Grove suffered as well, while Orange and a number of beach communities practically escaped damage.

$500,000 DAMAGE AT HUNTINGTON BEACH

HUNTINGTON BEACH, March 11.—Damage estimated at $500,000 was caused in the Huntington Beach district by the earthquake, with the business district closed today and under patrol by American Legion members.

The main grammar school building at Fifteenth and Palm streets was damaged to the amount of $200,000, the auditorium being completely wrecked.

Warren J. Bristol, president of the grammar school board, stated today that no decision had been reached as to when pupils would be able to return to their classes. Eight hundred students were in the school yesterday.

The high school at Main and Eighteenth streets was not damaged, though water was thrown from the plunge onto floors. A tall tower on the school was not damaged.

Chief of Police Verne Keller was the only person hurt. Keller started across his office at police headquarters as the quake struck and was thrown to the floor, his right leg being wrenched. He is using crutches.

Pier Is Cracked

The 500-foot extension to the pier, constructed of steel and concrete, separated from the main section, a two-foot crack resulting.

W. F. Ebert, proprietor of a beach camp, and his father and young daughter were on the end of the pier fishing when he felt the structure tremble violently. The Eberts lost no time in getting back to land.

No serious damage was reported in the oil field, though "Christmas trees" were reported cracked on a few wells.

Outlying grocery stores did a big business because the large markets in the downtown district were closed, their stocks of goods scattered on the floor.

Every building on Main street was damaged. The Western Union office was moved into the center of the street.

Grammar School Damaged

The central building of the group of three structures composing Huntington Beach grammar school at Fourteenth and Palm streets was badly wrecked.

J. W. Williams, night watchman, escaped death or serious injury by the narrowest of margins. He was walking down a hallway when the quake occurred. A cologne bottle fell on his head, and he was hit on the side. Williams grasped a concrete pillar and hugged it as the building broke around him.

NO ONE HURT AT SEAL BEACH

SEAL BEACH, March 11.—The immense smoke stack of the Los Angeles Gas and Electric corporation here withstood the earthquake, the only damage being to a pool hall, where the front was caved in. No one was hurt here.

Garden Grove

GARDEN GROVE, March 11.—One person was killed, several injured and more than half the buildings of Garden Grove were damaged as the result of the shock.

LEADERSHIP OF DEMOCRATS IN HOUSE CRASHES

Attempt to Bind Party Members by Caucus Fails and Meet Adjourned

WASHINGTON, March 11.—(UP)—The house democratic leadership today collapsed completely in its attempt to bind party members by caucus to support the $500,000,000 Roosevelt emergency program and the party meeting adjourned without definite action.

Speaker Rainey expected to secure enough republican aid to push through the President's demands for sufficient authority to cut nearly $400,000,000 from the veterans and approximately $120,000,000 from federal salaries.

The amendment which would have riddled the President's plan was presented in caucus by Rep. Browning of Tennessee and was written into the economy bill by a vote of 153 to 112.

It would have provided that no veterans' compensation, disability allowance or pension, or the allowances to any veterans' dependent, could be cut more than 25 percent. Even advocates of this plan admitted it would have resulted in halving economies asked by President Roosevelt.

Speaker Rainey and his fellow leaders, confronted with a situation whereby they might have been bound by caucus rules to support a plan in direct variance with that proposed by Mr. Roosevelt, voted against any binding action.

Proponents of the Browning plan failed to secure the two thirds necessary vote by a roll call of 174 to 193 against binding. The democratic caucus action, house leaders predicted, may have the most far flung and virtually unpredictable political consequences.

It marked a bold and successful rebellion against Mr. Roosevelt's leadership on the very threshold of his new administration.

It was a distinct repudiation of the newly elected house leadership on the part of its followers. The complicated and vital federal patronage situation into a muddle. The titular democratic leadership, angry at the party action, said they had not yet determined if they would attempt any party discipline. However, it was recalled that as yet no federal jobs have been distributed; nor have any of the vital committee assignments been made by house leaders.

Under present plans, the insurgent democrats will be given a chance to get back in line when the original presidential proposal is placed before the house for a record vote.

While the Democratic leadership was encountering difficulties in its caucus, opposition to the veterans' reductions and federal pay cuts was being expressed by

City Will Provide Food For Needy

"Owing to the emergency need of closing downtown Santa Ana, including produce stores and banks, there may be some people who are in temporary distress for food and necessities. The city has made arrangements with the Unemployed Association whose headquarters are at North Main and Tenth streets to take care of all such citizens on application. For other emergencies, the citizens may call the city hall."

Make Appeal For Bedding For Many Of Beach District

Residents of Santa Ana who have bedding that can be sent to Long Beach for relief of persons made homeless through the earthquake are asked to notify the Salvation Army.

Major F. Schute, in charge of the Citadel here, has announced that the Salvation Army will pick up bedding and transport it to Long Beach where it will be turned over to the Salvation Army there for distribution.

Major Schute said this morning that the need for bedding in Long Beach is acute. Hundreds of residents of the beach city have been made homeless and have appealed to the Salvation Army for food, shelter and bedding. Calls for things needed have been broadcast by radio, Schute said. The Salvation Army here has been designated as the agency to collect contributions in Santa Ana.

SEEK WELFARE WORKERS

SACRAMENTO, Cal., March 11.—(UP)—Mrs. Elsie Crawford Spilvold, director of social welfare, today issued a radio message from Long Beach requesting all members of her department who can possibly get away to report for relief duty at Long Beach.

MAYOR'S PROCLAMATION

THAT, WHEREAS, the City of Santa Ana has suffered a severe earthquake and loss of life and destruction of property has resulted therefrom, and

WHEREAS, the continued earthquake tremors make it imperative that all public buildings, including all city and county offices be closed, and that the public be excluded from the business section of said city of Santa Ana to prevent further loss of life,

NOW THEREFORE, I, Hon. Paul Witmer, Mayor of the city of Santa Ana, California, for and on behalf of the Executive Department of the city of Santa Ana and by reason of the emergency existing and to prevent further loss of life and destruction of property, do hereby DECLARE AND PROCLAIM, Saturday, March 11, 1933, a Special Holiday, and do further declare and proclaim that all city and county buildings be closed and that the business district of said city of Santa Ana so affected and likely to be affected by said earthquake tremors be closed to the public and that entrance thereto be granted only by permit of the Chief of Police of the City of Santa Ana.

PAUL WITMER, Mayor.

R. F. C. PLEDGES RELIEF TO CAL. STRICKEN AREA

Loans Will Be Granted to Provide Food, Shelter For Destitute

WASHINGTON, March 11.—(UP)—Reconstruction Finance Corporation officials today pledged immediate relief to California in every way permitted by law.

The corporation has advanced $6,523,239 to California in emergency relief loans from a total of $45,000,000 which are available to any one state or its political subdivisions. Last week a loan of $4,100,000 was authorized to California.

Officials were ready to speed quake relief loans when requested. Relief loans may be granted by the corporation to provide work relief or to furnish food, clothing and shelter to destitute and needy. Corporation officials said that if the Wagner amendment to the R. F. C. act passed by the senate is adopted, funds could be advanced to communities in Southern California to finance construction of municipal projects. At present the R. F. C. act permits loans only to finance building of self-liquidating projects.

LONG BEACH CARS, BUSES BEGIN RUN

LOS ANGELES, Mar. 11.—(UP)—Electric cars and busses ran on temporary schedules to the Long Beach area today, routed through Wilmington junction because of power failure south of Dominguez Junction.

An employee of Pacific Electric Railway was killed when the Dominguez junction station tower collapsed, paralyzing temporarily the car system into Long Beach.

SENATE FORCES SEEK TO HELP STATE BANKS

Minority Drive Launched to Extend Emergency Reserve Protection

WASHINGTON, March 11.—(UP)—Senate administration forces today fought a vigorous minority drive to extend emergency Federal Reserve protection to state banks.

Senate Minority Leader Robinson told the senate that to bring state banks under direct protection now would wreck the reserve system, and that any guarantee of state bank deposits would bankrupt the government.

Harrison's motion was designed to enable the senate to begin debate promptly Monday. When McCarron objected it became necessary either to sit today until the report could be prepared and introduced or to hold it until Monday, with a consequent delay in debate.

Senator Harrison formally reported the economy bill to the senate at 1:42 p. m.

Meantime Chairman Harrison of the senate finance committee asked unanimous consent to file any time today the committee's favorable report on the administration $500,000,000 economy bill.

Senator McCarron, Dem., Nevada, objected.

Senator Long, Dem., Louisiana, slashed away at Senator Glass, Dem., Virginia, in a sarcastic attack, but could not persuade the Virginian to reply.

Long said that the day "selected" banks were permitted to open would be the "blackest in American history."

Bronson came to the defense of the administration.

"For God's sake, give the government a chance to go forward with the law and a fair chance to study it," he shouted.

"It is true there has been delay in opening the banks. But when the smoke of the battle clears away it will be seen that wise precautions have been taken."

Robinson complained of a barrage of telegrams demanding a federal guarantee of bank deposits, and said it would bring the government to "bankruptcy and ruin."

"We would never sell another bond at par, if you want to wreck the government, then guarantee the bank deposits in all state banks."

The majority leader conceded, however, that the sentiment of the people generally was in favor of a guarantee.

Glass interposed that a guarantee would depreciate federal bonds 50 per cent.

LONDON PAPERS 'PLAY' QUAKE NEWS

LONDON, March 11.—(UP)—The Southern California earthquake today overshadowed all other news in London newspapers, and drew widest attention in all European capitals.

London newspapers spent thousands of dollars in telephoning cities in the quake zone for details and interviews. This afternoon's Evening Standard carried a particularly graphic account of how one of its editors, talking by trans-Atlantic telephone with S. Tilson, chief of Los Angeles detectives, heard in the background of the conversation sounds of the earthquake 6000 miles away.

The Star declares editorially that "the world sympathizes with America that in the hour of her greatest difficulties nature should have added this last blow."

HOUSE RESOLUTION SENDS SYMPATHY

WASHINGTON, Mar. 11.—(UP)—A resolution of sympathy for the earthquake sufferers of California was adopted by the house when it met today. It was offered by Rep. Kramer, Dem., Calif.

PROPERTY DAMAGE WILL RUN INTO MILLIONS AS SOUTHLAND IS ROCKED

New Series Of Tremors This Morning Adds to Devastation Caused By More Than 100 Durnig Night

400 PERSONS ARE INJURED

LOS ANGELES, March 11.—(UP)—Southern California, attempting to count the death and damages from a series of devastating earthquakes last night, was shaken by a new series of tremors today. Officials in close touch with all sections of the stricken area, from Santa Barbara to San Diego, estimated at 10 a. m. that at least 125 persons lost their lives as buildings in a dozen cities came tumbling down with the jolts.

The recurrent quakes today, it was pointed out, added to the hazard of searching the ruins and slowed the check on the disaster's cost.

Authorities estimated 400 people received injuries of varying seriousness.

Property damage from the quakes was high in the millions. One estimate placed $50,000,000 as the loss in Long Beach alone. That city, hit harder than any other, immediately began the task of reconstruction by hiring 2000 unemployed to aid in clearing away wreckage.

The continuation of the shocks, and California Tech. estimated there were close to 150 in all, caused local authorities to order the city hall closed to the public. The building, 29 stories high, is the tallest in Southern California.

As buildings collapsed in Long Beach fire broke out and fire fighters were confronted with tremendous difficulties in getting equipment through debris strewn streets to the blazes.

The Carnegie seismological institute at Pasadena reported the nature of the shock indicated more would be felt "probably for days."

The time of the first shock was set at 5:54:20 p. m. P. S. T.

Buildings in Long Beach Los Angeles, Artesia, Compton, Lynwood, Huntington Park, Bell and Hynes went tumbling. People were crushed to death beneath flying bricks and concrete.

Screams of the injured could be heard above the sirens of police ambulances.

The Long Beach telephone office suffered terrific damage and it was ordered evacuated, stopping the most important line of communication.

Police Chief Clarence Webb of Santa Monica chartered an airplane and sent an officer to survey the damaged area. In the smoke and fog the plane crashed near Baldwin Hills. The officer, the pilot and a passenger were burned to death.

Those killed in the plane were: Sergeant J. Morton, George Towne, manager of the Culver City airport, Fred Porter, pilot, wealthy sportsman.

Soldiers, sailors and marines, aiding peace authorities to patrol the Long Beach district, had orders to shoot in event of looting.

In the Naples district in Long Beach, hundreds of terrorized men, women and children fled to higher land, fearing a tidal wave might follow the quakes. The Naples district is along the coast line.

Most householders deserted their homes in Long Beach, establishing bivouacs on streets, vacant lots.

Officials Say Water Supply O. K.

Rumors which were spread today that the city water supply in Santa Ana had been condemned were branded as absolutely false by city officials and official of the health department. The rumors which were circulated said that the water supply had been condemned because the water was contaminated. There is no truth in the rumors, it was definitely determined.

WATCH PARTIES ARE RULE OF NIGHT IN S. A.

The music of purposely gay radio programs mingled last night with prayers and frightened tears as Santa Ana passed the long hours which intervened between the earthquake at five minutes of six last night until a grey dawn broke over a disorganized city.

On hundreds of lawns throughout Santa Ana little children slept on mattresses while their parents watched over them from the security of easy chairs nearby. Neighbors gathered in groups of from a few persons to large parties of fifty, to share the confidence which numbers inspired. Again, other families retired as usual sleeping in the intervals between tremors which rocked their beds through the hours until morning.

A group of boys on South Broadway tucked their arms and gaiters under their arms and went about the south part of town serenading watchers while a sea fog crept in laying a soft blanket over a waiting world.

Out on West Sixth street just before midnight, a group of Negroes sang spirituals by the flicking light of a huge bonfire in the center of a vacant lot. Mexican residents of this section plied their possessions in their cars—chickens, babies and household goods, blocking the roads and congesting the filling stations. They had been told that water mains and gas mains had broken. The old wooden horse in the Lutz building on East Fifth street, which has been in almost every parade held in the city for the past half century, looked with calm eyes through unbroken windows of a structure the top story of which is entirely wrecked. Nearby are three cars the bodies of which were filled with bricks by the giant hand of a great catastrophe.

M. Pappos who has a clothing store on East Fourth street, surveyed his property with a happy grin this morning. "Everything's all right with me," he exclaimed. Just at that moment a tremor swayed the broken buildings around Mr. Pappos and a member of the national guard rudely brought Mr. Pappos back to reality. "Better keep away from that building," he warned. "They're all in pretty bad shape along here."

The hands of the clock in the Spurgeon building still stand at five minutes of six.

Temblors Fail To Stop Desire For Marriage Licenses

That favorite old saying, "This love that makes the world go round," seemed to find application this morning at the court house, where the world going round and round, also upside down and sideways, didn't deter two nicely dressed men from Los Angeles from appearing to secure the marriage licenses for which application had been made last week.

Evidently two Los Angeles couples had planned wedding ceremonies for today in this city, and the men, accompanied by a group of friends, appeared this morning, seeking Clerk ("Cupid") J. M. Backs, fondly expecting to secure the necessary license. Since the county court house is barred to everyone, official and onlooker alike, the disappointed Romeos, Jimmy Cattrell and William Lawrence, with their best men, and their brides with their attendants, had to say farewell to wedding plans and return to Los Angeles as singly as they left, according to J. D. Lippincott of the sheriff's office.

DISASTER EXTRA WINS APPROVAL

Congratulations today reached the Register office from the different press services which cover the country, because of the unique record established when this paper was the only one reported in Southern California to issue an extra covering the earthquake calamity which struck the Southland.

Editors and reporters worked at improvised offices in the street, while linotype operators, stereotypers and pressmen remained at their various posts in the quivering Register building, getting every possible detail on the extent of the calamity, writing it and getting it on the press, so that the entire county was covered in the story. A total of 6500 papers were printed, and county carriers made their rounds until every section of Orange county was able to read at first hand, of the state of affairs.

STREET BUCKLES UNDER S. A. MAN IN BEACH DISTRICT

Frank P. Rowe, 1926 Maple street Register employee, arrived in North Long Beach last night at the exact time the first earthquake shock shook that city in common with other cities of Southern California. Mr. Rowe became aware of the disaster when he saw the pavement ahead of him buckle up about two feet and found his car tipping from side to side of the broken street before he was able to steer the vehicle on the dirt road.

Glimping upward Mr. Rowe saw the walls of a two-story brick building spread apart and topple to the ground. The structure was about 75 feet from the Santa Ana man. A nearby frame house was raised from its foundations and slid gently off them resting at a precarious angle at the end of the temblor.

Power line poles on each side of the road which lay along South Avenue, nearly met in the center of the street, Mr. Rowe said. Mr. Rowe, who was on his way to Los Angeles, continued his way to the home of relatives.

Legion Auxiliary Opens Emergency Station In Park

Probably no one feature of the general relief work already underway in this city, has been of more service and convenience than the emergency dressing station set up in Birch park, field headquarters of the 15th Infantry, California National guard.

Dr. K. H. Sutherland and J. R. Daly, with Miss Vena Jones of the health department, are ready to administer any needed first aid treatments, while supplementing their work is the field kitchen which was established last night under the direction of Rowena Fultz, state chairman of disaster and relief, American Legion auxiliary.

Hot coffee, sandwiches and cheerfulness without measure are dispensed by women of the auxiliary, to members of the National guard, American Legion, police officers, and all agents in the protected area as well as citizens in need of assistance.

S. A. UNEMPLOYED FEED GUARDSMEN

The unemployed of Santa Ana and Orange county rallied to assist authorities during the emergency created by the earthquake that shook this section last night.

The Santa Ana Unemployed association cooked and served dinner at noon today to the three companies of National Guard on duty here. The dinner was cooked and served cafeteria style, at Unemployed headquarters, Tenth and Main streets. The menu consisted of roast beef, mashed potatoes, gravy, beans, bread, butter, and coffee.

Early this morning the County Co-operative Council of the Unemployed notified County Welfare Director Byron Curry that the organization was ready to co-operate with his department in any way during the emergency.

Cafe Man Donates Food To Stricken

George Dennis, proprietor of the Dennis cafe at 300 North Main street, today sent to the Santa Unemployed association a full auto load of food for the use of citizens in need because of the earthquake.

The Excelsior union high school, which has an enrollment of 1100 pupils from the Artesia-Norwalk district, was shaken to pieces and blackened by fire that followed. Pioneer boulevard, the main street of Artesia, was a mass of ruins.

Swinging south from Los Angeles toward Long Beach, the first severe evidence of the quake was seen in the Graham district, along Manchester street east of Central avenue. There the fronts of brick buildings crashed to the street, and in every direction side streets were roped off and under guard of citizens and members of the American Legion. Citizens feared other buildings would collapse at any moment.

VIEWS OF WRECKAGE IN SANTA ANA

Views of the wreckage in the wake of the earthquake which struck Santa Ana with devastating force last night are shown below. They were taken by Larry Russell, staff photographer, who spent most of the night in the debris strewn business section. The upper view shows debris which crashed through the west steps at the court house, while below is what is left of one of the several autos in the business district which were demolished when fire walls came crashing into the streets. This car was parked on Spurgeon street at the side of the East Fourth street Alpha Beta Market. The officer shows the height of the car before it was crushed under the heavy stone coping.

REHABILITATION FUNDS FOR USE HERE SOUGHT BY MAYOR PAUL WITMER

Reconstruction Finance Corporation funds for immediate use in rehabilitation work in Santa Ana was asked in a telegram sent this morning to R. F. C. officials by Mayor Witmer on behalf of the city of Santa Ana.

Because of the urgent need for the money for use in repairing the damage done in this city last night by the earthquake that damaged practically every building in the business district, Mayor Witmer has asked the mayors of other communities to join with him in the request.

Welfare Director B. V. Curry this morning wired to the R. F. C. asking immediate distribution of $500,000 for use in Orange county.

and even on the beach.

Even with 3000 sailors and 1600 marines enforcing a semi-martial law, City Manager Dobbs requested Governor Rolph to send more national guardsmen and equipment. Col Paul Arndt immediately ordered 250 guardsmen to the scene from Los Angeles.

More than 150 Los Angeles physicians and a like number of nurses were rushed to Long Beach by bus, police cars and special train.

Governor Rolph invoked emergency powers to aid Long Beach, hardest hit of all communities in the quake belt.

Fire, which broke out in Long Beach, Compton and Huntington Park shortly after the first temblor, was reported under control early today.

At midnight, commanders of the United States battleships ordered marines to every point on the Southern California coast between Huntington Beach and Venice, a distance of 40 miles.

Death and injury, the wrecking of homes and the destruction of business buildings, struck throughout the area southeast of Los Angeles, enclosed in a circle bounded by the Pacific shoreline, east to Artesia and south to the harbor district.

Two men were crushed to death in Artesia, when the Scott and Frampton hall, a large structure, was destroyed. Fifty other men and women were taken to the Artesia community hospital, each a victim of bruises, lacerations and shock.

The Excelsior union high school, which has an enrollment of 1100 pupils from the Artesia-Norwalk district, was shaken to pieces and blackened by fire that followed. Pioneer boulevard, the main street of Artesia, was a mass of ruins.

First Work Of Rebuilding Starts Early

The first organized construction move started in Santa Ana this morning when George Wells started a gang of men to work repairing the L. D. Coffing garage building at Fifth and Spurgeon streets.

Wells, who owns the building, said the entire loss was covered by insurance. The men employed on the repair work were instructed to tear down any part of the building which might be damaged and to rebuild the edifice soundly.

Security - First National bank branch bulged out, swayed and smashed clear to the center of the street.

Breaking through a guarded police line far to the east, United Press representatives swung into East Long Beach.

At Cherry and Anaheim streets uniformed marines with service guns, men from the U. S. Arkansas, were on patrol, directing traffic, and keeping the curious away.

"Our orders are," one of them said, "to handle traffic, relieve all citizens of guard duty, prevent rioting and order all uniformed men on shore leave back to their ships."

Seven men and women were killed within a radius of three blocks of where the two marines stood, they said.

All of that section of East Long Beach was in ruins. For block upon block along Anaheim street, store fronts, brick hotels and rooming houses were wrecked.

Ambulances each hour brought additional relief as all cities within a radius of 50 miles rushed all available doctors, nurses and medical supplies to the stricken area. All hospitals were filled.

The State theater, near the Breakers hotel collapsed, causing deaths and injuries, police reported. Dr. William H. Watts, who came here recently from Japan, said "Long Beach destruction was the worst thing I've ever witnessed."

"People were dropping all over the streets," he said. "They were struck down by crashing walls and flying bricks and stone. There were the groans of the injured, the shrieks of women and children and the screams of ambulance sirens."

Many buildings in Los Angeles were wrecked and police quickly roped off streets where the damage was the worst.

Georgia receiving hospital reported it treated more than 200 injured.

a parade of witnesses before the senate finance committee.

The witnesses were permitted only a few moments each to present their arguments.

John Thomas Taylor, vice chairman of the national legislative committee of the American Legion, asserted "the federal government cannot carry on its right obligations to the disabled veterans and reduce their benefits by $400,000,000."

He urged congress not to be "stampeded" into hasty action.

Thomas Kirby, spokesman for disabled veterans, and L. S. Ray, vice chairman of the national legislative committee, veterans of foreign wars, asked for "deliberate consideration" instead of hasty action on the bill.

Rice W. Means, spokesman for the United Spanish War veterans, urged that congress refuse to "include us with World War Veterans when we have never had the benefits of the World War Veterans' act."

Reading the bill began immediately on the adoption of the Byrns resolution with the two hours of debate under the control of the economy committee.

Meanwhile the senate finance committee acted favorably on the measure with only two dissenting votes, those of Senator Clark.

THREE KILLED IN SANTA ANA DURING 'QUAKE

They were Frances Merchant, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Merchant, and Dorita Jordan, daughter of D. S. Jordan, a teacher in the high school. They were cut and bruised by the bricks that fell.

The body of the Pollard girl was brought to the Smith and Tutthill funeral parlors here.

Although the greatest percentage of damage was done to the business district of the city, there was hardly a home in Santa Ana today which did not report some loss. Chimneys crashed throughout the city, and in many cases roofs caved in. The loss to brick-a-brac, glassware and dishes was enormous, while the Southern California Gas company was busy for hours shutting off gas mains leading to private homes as well as to the business houses.

Ten minutes after the shock of the first quake was felt, Legion men answering an emergency call sent out by the firing of aerial bombs, gathered in great numbers at the Legion hall, and within 30 minutes the streets were being patrolled and broken store windows were being guarded. The Legion was being praised throughout the city today for its fast, efficient work in the emergency. Approximately 300 men answered the call of the bombs, fired high above the city.

Haley Building Razed

Probably the greatest damage done to a downtown building occurred at the Haley building on the southeast corner of Fifth and Bush streets. The building was almost razed, housed the Willys-Knight automobile agency. Two automobiles, parked at the curb were showered with bricks and were total losses. Great loss was incurred at the Lutz building on the southwest corner of Fifth and Spurgeon street. Police said approximately 15 cars, parked on the streets were demolished by bricks.

The Elks' club here was badly damaged, firewalls on the north and south side of the building crashing. The county courthouse lost four cupolas, the debris piling high in front of all the entrances.

Dr. F. W. Slabaugh, county purchasing agent, stated today that an investigation showed that the courthouse structure was sound and that the loss would not be as great as was at first believed. He was of the opinion that $5000 would repair the building, but admitted that the same kind of material used in its construction would not be used, the price being prohibitive.

The Santa Ana Register building was badly damaged when fire walls fell away, and the building was cracked in a number of places. An extra was printed last night after the first quake, but it was written on tables placed on the street, reporters writing their copy by the aid of street lights, with printers, stereotypers and pressmen sticking to their posts in the building.

The Otis building, at Fourth and Main streets, was cracked in a number of places and one of the building for a short time, but the building withstood the shocks admirably.

Bank Building Damaged

The Commercial National bank building suffered a heavy loss in the quake. The condition is not serious. They are Mrs. Emma Clark, and Mrs. Nelson Smith, 52, the latter of Gaviota street.

Police cleared the streets quickly and the quakes that followed the initial one found few persons in its danger zone which was the downtown area.

Few persons slept in Santa Ana last night. Those who remained indoors, kept close to the doors and each quake would find them scurrying out into the streets.

Culverts at both ends of the Fifth street bridge and the Seventeenth street bridge over the Santa Ana river shifted to such an extent that it left no approach to the bridge from the roadway. California Highway Patrolmen are on guard at the bridges to stop all traffic.

Reports to the effect that the vault in the county treasurer's office in the Hall of Records building plunged through the floor into Judge Kenneth Morrison's office below, were untrue.

Santa Ana's schools escaped serious damage, although damage was reported at several. Plaster was knocked off the walls of the Santa Ana high school and three other schools were hurt by the quake, but according to reports, not seriously. No estimate has been made of their losses. The schools damaged were the Roosevelt, the Santa Ana Junior College and the Administration building. The administration building, condemned as unsafe some time ago, lost only a firewall.

The Green Cat Cafe, lost approximately $300 in broken dishes, caused by the first quake, it was reported by James Detrixhe, its owner. Much glassware also was ruined.

Plate Glass Broken

Horton's Furniture store at Sixth and North Main street lost heavily in broken plate glass, but the interior was not damaged. J. C. Horton reported.

The building on the northeast

S. A. Schools Will Be Closed Monday

Every public school in the city of Santa Ana will be closed Monday.

None of the buildings was damaged to any appreciable extent, but Frank A. Henderson, superintendent of schools, said class work would not be resumed until a committee representing the board of education had made a thorough inspection of every structure in the system.

Henderson said he believed schools could reopen Tuesday.

The board's administration building at 1012 North Main street was slightly damaged. Henderson said another severe shock might cause the front to cave.

Coping fell from the Roosevelt school on East First street, the plaster was shaken loose in all rooms at the junior college building on West Walnut street.

corner of Second and Main streets almost collapsed. It is occupied by a garage and parking station.

The county garage was badly damaged.

Lost the Rossmore hotel was great, caused chiefly by falling bricks from the firewalls and cracking throughout the building. It was here that two lost their lives.

Drug stores throughout the city were among the heaviest losers. Shelves toppled over, and as drug stores carry most of their stock on shelves, the loss was unusually heavy. The Kelly Drug Company reported its loss at approximately $2,000, with the statement that virtually all drug stores shared the same fate. Given and Cannon Drug company at Fourth and Ross streets and at Seventeenth and North Main streets were heavy losers as was the McCoy store at Fourth street and Broadway.

While the public was being barred from the downtown streets, today, it was announced that the city council would meet within the next few days to determine which buildings in the downtown area were safe and which should be condemned. J. L. McBride, city engineer, said today that it would be up to the council to pass on the safety of downtown office and store buildings if there was any doubt as to their stability.

Legion, Police Efficient

Efficient work by the Santa Ana police department, aided materially by the American Legion and by police officers from other Orange county towns which were not in the stricken area, is believed to have been responsible for the fact that very few persons were injured here. Several were taken to hospitals for first aid treatment but today there were no Santa Ana persons in the hospitals suffering from quake injuries.

Only four were taken to the Santa Ana Valley hospital and four to the Orange county hospital. These were quickly given first aid treatment and removed to their homes.

George Wheaton, 14, of 2005 West Central avenue, Newport Beach, was rushed to the Santa Ana Valley hospital at 7:30 o'clock last night, suffering from a fracture of the skull. He was injured when he ran from a building there and a firewall caved in on him. His condition today was reported as satisfactory.

The Santa Ana Valley hospital also received two patients from Long Beach, who were hurt there in the quake. Their condition is not serious. They are Mrs. Emma Clark, and Mrs. Nelson Smith, 52, the latter of Gaviota street.

Police cleared the streets quickly and the quakes that followed the initial one found few persons in its danger zone which was the downtown area.

Few persons slept in Santa Ana last night. Those who remained indoors, kept close to the doors and each quake would find them scurrying out into the streets.

Many moved their beds out onto their lawns and campfires burned brightly throughout the city. Many erected cooking stoves and heated coffee throughout the night.

Dam Withstands Shock

Rumors to the effect that the Santiago dam had broken were found to be utterly without foundation. The dam is constructed of earth and is sound.

Santa Ana police opened emergency feeding stations for guards at the Tony cafe on Bush street and at the Coffee Cup between Third and Fourth streets on Birch streets. Hundreds of men were fed who had worked throughout the night.

Scores of unemployed, quick to grasp the opportunity of procuring work were hired by merchants last night as guards. They were kept on duty until the soldiers relieved them.

At the Reid Motor company on East Fifth street, the steel frame was torn from the double doors on the Fifth street side and the glass in the doors was broken. The east side of the structure was badly wrecked. The roof and upper part of the Lutz building at the corner of Spurgeon and Fifth streets were entirely gone and a lamp post at this corner was not only broken down but was twisted out of shape. A car standing in front of the old Spurgeon theater was crushed almost flat to the pavement by debris falling from nearby buildings.

Other Damage

The building occupied by the Santa Ana Printing company, was badly cracked and the top torn off. At the S. Hill and company building on East Fourth street, glass in the windows was broken so finely as to be almost powdered and in the Dickey-Baggerly building next door glass was forced inward into the store in large sections.

The dance hall on East Fourth street between Bush and Spurgeon streets, was wrecked in a peculiar fashion. Window frames and windows were forced from the walls, the front wall falling and the roof caving in.

CLEAVER'S HISTORICAL ALMANAC

XANTHIPPE was born this week, in 479 B. C.

She is famous, chiefly because she was the wife of Socrates. She perished that poor guy, day and night for years trying to get him to buy her a washing-machine.

He told her time and time again, and explained it to her, that doing home laundry with a washing machine costs more than sending it to THE SANITARY LAUNDRY.

But she was one of those folks who simply will not be convinced and so she kept on nagging him until he finally got tired of it and took a good stiff joint of hemlock, with arsenic as a chaser.

MANY BUILDINGS SHOW EFFECTS OF TREMBLORS

The Santa Ana Y. M. C. A. church and Sycamore street, closed its doors today, by order of the city safety council, for the first time since it opened on April 30, 1924. This information was disclosed today by Ralph C. Smedley, Y. M. C. A. secretary, who pointed out that the action was taken as a preventative safety measure and not because of any present danger. The building was untouched by the quake, he said.

Escorted by Traffic Officer George Boyd, the Register reporter was led on a personally conducted tour of the central business area. Boyd pointed out a crack, about three stories up on the First National bank building, but declared that damage there was largely confined to the interior. Although the earthquake showed less consideration for the Elks hall, North Sycamore street, dislodging a quantity of bricks from its roof, passers-by found more curious the phenomena observable in the tower of the new Masonic temple, opposite. About a third of the way across the tower, stones had been struck apart and the entire portion had been shifted to open a considerable crack, zigzag, the length of the topmost structure.

The tour disclosed that the buildings occupied by Ketter's confectionery store and the Woolworth store had been shaken considerably by the earthquake, as was testified by the heaped brick which littered the sidewalk before the door of each. Boyd also indicated the Try-Angle garage, Sixth and Sycamore street, severely hit, and the spot in front of the Rossmore cafe where two hotel patrons had been killed by an avalanche of brick.

At Sycamore and Third streets Boyd nodded toward the northeast corner, which he declared had been the scene last night of a near fatality. A woman and her daughter were leaving the car of former Mayor F. L. Purinton, when the city experienced its first seizure. Bricks loosened by the shock fell to the sidewalk, one striking the elder woman on the head. No serious injury resulted, the daughter escaping entirely in a rush to the center of the street. The elder woman, said to be a nurse, later was reported to have recovered sufficiently to administer to another earthquake victim. Both women were identified only as "residents of Tustin."

QUAKE VICTIMS ON HONEYMOON

Tragically widowed two years ago when her husband was killed in an automobile crash in the bay district Mrs. Jack Ellison, formerly Mrs. J. B. Armstrong, of Oakland, was killed here last night when bricks from the Rossmore hotel buried her and her husband for two months under a ton of debris.

Two months ago she had married Jack Ellison, of Baltimore, Md., and the couple were in this city on their honeymoon when their lives were snuffed out. Mrs. Ellison is survived by a daughter who is a high school student in Oakland.

Local Briefs

The meeting of the Fahlola class of the First Baptist church scheduled for Monday night in the home of Mrs. L. B. Armstrong, 819 Freeman street, has been postponed indefinitely. It was announced today.

A WORD OF COMFORT

Fatigue results from unvaried activity. Occasional release from tension is necessary to permit the storing of reserve energy. This is as true of the spirit as it is of the body. Refuse to let doubts enslave you and the spirit of rebellion to exhaust you. Relax your intense efforts now and then and be still in the presence of God. He will give you what you need.

DAMSON—March 10, 1933, in Santa Ana, Earle Wilson Adamson, age 35 years. He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William W. Adamson, of 1017 North Rose street; one brother, William S. NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG -- News Behind the News --

WASHINGTON
By Robert D. Heintz
(Subbing for Paul Mallon)

Although everyone seems outwardly calm, and the new crowd is riding surprisingly easy in the saddle, there is action in the air at the White House. President Roosevelt is already being repeatedly likened to his famous kinsman, Theodore Roosevelt, who shot from the hip, "Bang! Bang!"

With the panic at its peak, with Walsh dead in the Capitol, funeral services awaiting the close of the Inaugural, flags flying at half-mast, and with Cermak dying, the Administration had a sorrowful beginning until F. D. cleared the atmosphere with his drastic order closing the banks.

JOBS

The next biggest surprise was the neat solar-plexus blow which F. D. gave to asset seekers. This was also strongly reminiscent of the old T. R. and gave Washington the first laugh it has had in a gloomy month of Sundays.

Twelve long years out of office, and with their activities whetted to a point where a sack of peanuts looked like a feast, the Democrats descended upon the White House executive offices the morning of the first working day of the new President at his desk.

They came in through the front gates, through the side gates, and one of them almost kissed a colored furnace-man who, hearing a commotion outside, inadvertently opened a basement door.

They were armed with letters from everybody but the Pope. Nothing like it had been seen since the day after Harding was inaugurated, when a delegation of Ohio office-seekers took possession of the place and stayed for a week.

Not a peep was heard from F. D. until about noon when, showing his old naval training, he discharged a depth bomb. That there was also a moratorium on job seekers and that he would not concern himself with distribution of plums until he had finally acted on the emergency banking legislation shocked the faithful.

Realizing that if they persisted in recommending themselves they might be busted out more quickly the second time than the first, the Democrats who have hopes have not been near the White House since.

CALM

As a result of the exodus of the job seekers army there was an air of tranquillity about the White House Tuesday morning which has not been equalled on the second morning of any President's occupancy in forty years.

When a new man goes in usually there are taxicabs dashing up to the door discharging passengers who are bursting with importance. Many of these will, upon the slightest pretext, confide the fact that he carried his own state for the successful candidate. Also missing were the thousands of sightseers usually running hither and thither about the White House for several days after an inauguration.

SMILES

Taking their cue from the President the men about the White House were smiling. After his banking edict Mr. Roosevelt appeared to be like a man with the weight of the world off his shoulders.

Again likening F. D. to T. R., whose drastic "impromptu" edicts were said always to have been carefully studied and even rehearsed in advance, a White House observer declared President Roosevelt had dug up the old war-time banking law while on his last trip to Warm Springs and had been waiting ever since then to spring it.

CLOSED

It was necessary for local merchants to wait in line at the U. S. Treasury for as long as four hours in order to secure change the day the country's banking doors were closed.

This visible hardship may have had some bearing on Secretary Woodin's decision to allow the banks to reopen for certain functions, including the changing of bills of large denomination.

The opening of the doors of the banks Tuesday morning had good psychological effect, even though gold was not allowed to pass out. Once people were allowed to get to their safe deposit boxes they said, "Anyway, we can eat for a week longer."

Seeing banks closed and barred made it difficult for Washingtonians to keep their chins up.

KISSES

The night Rainey was elected speaker he is reported to have kissed Mrs. Virginia Jenckes, Congresswoman-elect, who came up to congratulate. His own misadventure was standing by, smiling.

Mrs. Jenckes, Democrat, first woman to be elected to Congress from Indiana, is one of the most attractive feminine members of the House, wears modish clothes and glistening turbans any man would like.

On Inauguration Day she had on a turban of brilliant red and captured more attention than some of the feminine members of the Presidential Party.

CONGRESSWOMAN

Former Representative Fred Purnell, of Indiana, whom Mrs. Jenckes defeated, was a gallant opponent. But one day he remarked facetiously: "Why, if Virginia were elected to Congress she wouldn't even know where to hang her hat."

"That was true," Mrs. Jenckes remarked later. "The first day I sat in the House of Representatives, I couldn't find a place to hang my hat. The result was that I was the first person, I am told, who ever sat in Congress with a hat on."

CONGRESS

The special session is forecast from opposite angles by Senators of influence. A short period now devoted to financial problems—a longer one later for handling the full program is one estimate. Other Senators say: "He can call us but he can't tell us to go home." These men think they'll stick and get things done fast.

The President will probably have the casting vote.

NEW YORK
By James McMullin
ROOSEVELT

Roosevelt's first move as President made much more than a skin-deep impression here. As one bank official put it: "It seemed too good to be true to wake up Monday and find that he had acted instead of calling a conference." Even those who know that their traditional prerogatives are threatened express relief amounting almost to elation that a leader has been found who is willing to take responsibility. Financial New York will swallow by a heavy majority and without peep or mutter whatever medicine he prescribes.

The President is given particular credit for his skillful method of working up wartime psychology. You hear frequent comment in high quarters that he has done more in a few days to create an atmosphere of patriotic co-operation than all other leaders have been able to build in three years.

BANKS

Local authorities have information that a hidden storm is brewing in Washington on the fundamental principles of banking legislation. The real issue is whether an effort should be made to save a line banks or whether a belated division of sheep and goats is in order. The latter policy would mean survival only of the fittest but would probably result in complete restoration to financial health much sooner.

Leaders who favor the more realistic plan include Senators Glass and Tydings. The unpublished leader of the other school is understood to be unofficial advisor Adolf Berle, Jr. Berle has been in close contact with William Woodin and the current impression here is that Roosevelt's bank program will be largely of his authorship.

New York's main hope is that the program will not involve a broad Federal guarantee of bank deposits. Financial men believe this would bring chaos involving the Federal credit. It is known that Glass will oppose any such proposition to the limit and he will have strong moral support from here.

The issuance of scrip is expected to help sort out the healthy and the quarantined. Banking government guarantees no bank will be able to issue more scrip than it has sound assets and distinctions along this line cannot be kept from public knowledge. Factoring of this kind is rated as reassuring rather than disturbing.

Local bankers are reconciled to the certainty of drastic permanent changes in the banking laws. There will be no gnashing of teeth. The leaders expect that silence and obedience will be the price they must pay to get out of the jam.

The only squawk so far registered on any phase of Treasury regulations is directed at the provision for special trust deposits redeemable 100%. You hear frequent comment that this is an unjustifiable reward to those who helped the panic by hasty withdrawals. But the element of unfairness is charged off against conditions.

SCRIP

The Clearing House banks of New York City were all set to issue their scrip several days ago. But they agreed to Governor Lehman's request to lay off until he could make arrangements to take care of the less-favored upstate banks. Then the Treasury department stepped in and the new currency had to remain quietly in the vaults. The most important question still to be settled is a definition of the assets on which scrip can be based. The answer will shed important light on the degree of inflation to be expected and on the general principles of Administration bank policy.

The American Banknote Company has a capacity of a million pieces of scrip a day. New York City's demands have been filled but scrip orders from all over the country are piling up. The company remains unexcited about the sudden rush of business.

LEADERSHIP

Informed opinion anticipates a gradual but complete change of financial and industrial leadership as one result of the new deal. You hear the prediction freely made that no one who was in authority in 1923 will still be in power five years from now. New conditions demand a new attitude.

The theory is gaining ground that cycles of leadership have something to do with cycles of depression. A group of leaders get set in their mental ways and cannot adapt themselves to renewing growth. They discover a comfortable formula and stick to it. Then you get a blow-off—and replacements. These take time.

GOLD

A timorous large depositor in a prominent New York bank was able to get himself a million dollars' worth of gold bars from the Federal Reserve last week and store them in the bank's vaults. Now he wants the bank to trade back his deposit credit for the gold. The bank was not too sorry to tell him that such transactions are not permitted under Treasury regulations. So he'll have to con-

PHONE GIRLS WIN PLAUDITS FOR COURAGE

With every great catastrophe come stories of acts of exceptional heroism and faithfulness to duty, but none of these stories is so impressive as that of the telephone operators and other employees of the telephone company in Santa Ana.

Within a few minutes after the first tremor rocked the city, scattering debris and destruction in its wake, 82 operators and linemen reported to Manager E. R. Morrow at the telephone office.

Every station was filled on the switchboards by operators who stuck to their posts despite quakes which rocked the building at approximately five-minute intervals during the night.

With operators seated at every chair, supervisors standing between the girls and linemen filling in at whatever was necessary, a noble attempt was made to keep the telephone traffic open.

At 11 o'clock Morrow reduced his force to 40 operators sending the remainder home to get what rest they could before reporting for duty and stood by their posts endeavoring to keep traffic moving while the building rocked and bricks were tumbling to the street in an avalanche. Every man and woman working at the Santa Ana office of the telephone company is worthy of individual mention for their heroism.

MEDICAL CARE IS ASSURED BY ORGANIZATION

Through the co-operation of the Santa Ana police, complete arrangements have been made should another earthquake hit Santa Ana, according to Dr. James L. Farrage, who today announced the list of doctors and nurses and the stations they are assigned to, in case of emergency.

Four emergency stations will be maintained. One at Birch Park, one at the Santa Ana Valley hospital, one at the St. Joseph's hospital and one at the Orange county hospital.

Following is the list of doctors and nurses who will rush immediately to their stations. Birch Park—Doctors John Wehrly and H. McVicker Smith and nurses Rees and Cotton; Santa Ana Valley hospital: Doctors Burlew and Yeagle and nurses Lucile Leigh and Alice McKean; St. Joseph's hospital: Doctors McAulay and Moore and nurses Hazel Flaherty and May Salter; Orange County Hospital: Doctors John Ball and W. P. Baker and nurses Annie Evans and Esther Nickles.

Their relief will be Birch Park, Doctors Earl and Clark; Nurses Ellen Smith and Cecelia Sanford; Santa Ana Valley, Doctors Ashmore and Daly and Nurses Leona Wunderlich and Gladys Neff; Orange County Hospital, Doctors Marsden and Pope and Nurses Marguerite McFarland and Clara Koehe.

'QUAKE REPORT MADE BY CAL. TECH SCIENTIST

While it is generally believed that further danger from earthquakes has passed residents of Santa Ana are urged and advised to exercise every precaution for the next few days. They are particularly instructed to remain away from the business district.

According to Dr. C. M. Richter of the seismological department of California Institute of Technology, who was reached by phone by a Register reporter today, it is usually the first shock that is the strongest during an earthquake and does the greatest damage. From the first one the shocks gradually diminish in severity.

Dr. Richter said however that while it is generally the case that the severest shock is the first one this is not a universal rule. He said that in some cases shocks have continued for several days with the most severe occurring at the end.

The more delicate instruments at the California Institute of Technology seismological department, Dr. Richter said, registered continuous motion from 5:54 p. m. last night until this morning at 8 o'clock when the record was changed for the 24 hours. He said that there is no way of determining how long the tremors will continue to occur nor how severe they will be. This quake, he said, is most difficult to interpret because of its tendency to jump and be felt with severity at separated points while intermediate points felt comparatively light shakes.

True worrying about a gold-hoard tax.

Large hoarders will not be as anonymous as they thought. All Federal Reserve gold payments of more than $5000 were made in numbered gold bars and the numbers can be traced. The hoarders would never be able to redeem or use gold for any legitimate purpose without paying the tax. Copyright, 1933, McClure News's Sys.

HERE AND THERE IN THE WAKE OF THE 'QUAKE

An opportunist—the owner of 105 West Fifth street, a building that now shows the signs of an earthquake. Left over from better days the sign in red and green hangs at an askew angle and reads, "Owner will remodel to suit tenant. Apply at 820 North Main street."

Yesterday was the wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. W. Lester Tubbs, 2115 North Rose street, and in accordance with a plan of several weeks' standing, Mr. and Mrs. Tubbs left at 5:30 o'clock last night to spend the anniversary week-end at Boulder Dam. Their first stop was Bantow where they had reservations for the night. Arriving at the hotel, they were met with "Your city was practically wrecked in the 'quake, wasn't it?" They returned home.

Clocks in downtown windows last night were almost unanimous in registering five minutes of 8 o'clock. The single exception noted by an enquiring reporter, was the big clock in the form of an eye, decorating the windows of Dr. K. A. Loersch's office, 116 East Fourth street. It was ticking busily away registering the correct time.

Cherished because it survived the San Francisco earthquake and a fire with no more damage than a nicked handle, a large flower vase, hand-painted by the sister of Mrs. George S. Briggs, last night was thrown from a high shelf in the Briggs home, 444 North Broadway, to land on the hardwood floor intact.

Any customers who have been using the facilities of the Bank of America, Santa Ana branch, will be served through the Anaheim branch as long as the downtown district in Santa Ana is closed to the public, it was announced today by C. K. Dadds, manager of the bank.

The Santiago dam escaped without damage of any kind, according to a report issued today by the Irvine company.

The Southern California Gas company, is ready to turn gas meters off and on without charge, according to officials.

RADIO STATION UNION CHURCH GIVES SERVICE SERVICE TO BE DURING 'QUAKE HELD SUNDAY

Courage and poise on the part of members of the technical staff of Radio Station KREG, this city, headed by E. L. Spencer, last night enabled harried Santa Anans to notify relatives in other cities of their safety here, and gave general information concerning the extent and effect of the earthquake. Broadcasting over the Santa Ana station was continued without interruption, when the jules allowed, until 10:30 p. m. When the last tube was broken, the station was in action again this morning.

Spencer today estimated a loss amounting to $300 from spare tubes alone which were shoved off shelves with the first shock and which were broken by succeeding tremors. Despite the fact that the continual succession of quivers kept the transmitter in a state of almost perpetual motion, messages from Santa Ana people were broadcast regularly to such points as Lake Elsinore, Corona, Los Angeles, Long Beach, etc.

Despite the confusion, KREG continued to present its program as scheduled and radio listeners were permitted their customary "huddle" with Chandu between news flashes, broadcast as received from the Register news office. A feature unanticipated was the broadcasting of the actual earthquake shocks as they struck the building. Radio operators turned the "mike" over to the earthquake for exclusive broadcasts when a particularly vicious smite hit the station.

Spencer declared today that no emergency in his memory was comparable to that of last night, so far as the radio was concerned. Men on duty at the station during the earthquake were Spencer, Wallace S. Wiggins, Evan T. Lewis, Clarence S. Palmer, Gordon R. Mills and Bill Sherwood.

DAMAGE SLIGHT AT LARGEST BUILDING

The tallest and largest downtown building in Santa Ana, the First National bank building, withstood the severe shocks of the earthquake last night and this morning in admirable shape, a check revealed today.

The six-story building came through with but little material shaken off the exterior of the edifice and little in the interior.

Seventy-foot beams, the longest built into any office building on the Pacific coast, supported the building without strain, and plastering about the beams was not even cracked during the tremors.

CITY ESCAPES FIRE MENACE AFTER 'QUAKE

Fortune smiled upon Santa Ana last night during the earthquake, and fire, that generally follows in the wake of severe earthquakes, did not add its menace to the horror of falling walls and collapsing roofs.

According to a report from the fire department this morning there were but six alarms turned in to the department. Two of them were to Smart and Final when the water main broke inside the store. One was to extinguish a bonfire on Artesia street, several were false alarms and the others were calls placed by panic stricken citizens.

The department has received more than 100 calls from householders asking that a man be sent to tear down brick chimneys, loosened by the quake and in danger of falling. These calls, according to officials of the department cannot be answered as all members of the fire department must be in the stations available for duty should a fire start. More than 30 of these calls had been received this morning and they continued to come in.

The operator at the station was advising householders to call brick contractors or have the chimneys removed by private labor.

One fire was reported this morning by a telephone company employee who reported that he had extinguished a small blaze in Room 325 of the Spurgeon building.

Last night when the O. A. Hawley building collapsed, debris fell across wires of the fire alarm box and put one alarm circuit out of commission until this morning.

According to a report from the fire department the most serious damage so far reported there was done in the Smart and Final warehouse when the water main broke inside the store drenching the entire stock. Stock that was not damaged by water was demolished by falling plaster it was said.

HOOKS and SLIDES

MACK IS ALL SET

Connie Mack took some 30 or 40 young and old ball players to Ford Myers, Fla., to go through the gestures of spring training. But it doesn't mean anything. For Mr. Mack's lineup on opening day, April 12, will be like this: Bishop, 3b; Cramer, cf; Cochran, c; Sox, 1b; Coleman, rf; Finney, lf; McNair, ss; Higgins, 2b; Grove, p. —Mr. Mack avers the nine as shown above is good enough to win three out of four games. That means, according to my arithmetic, 11 1/4 games out of 14 to be played. The record for the major leagues is 116 games won in the season of 1906 by the Cubs under Frank Chance.

BUYING IT BACK

When Harry Frazee peddled to other teams, mainly the Yankees, the stars of the Boston Red Sox, the market price for the group of seven was around $600,000. Yawkey and Collins would like to buy back at that price such men as Ruth, Mays, Bush, Penneck, Barry, McNair as they were then. But prices are cheaper now. So is the quality of the game.

SAVING THE CUSTOMERS

The flying tackle has been barred from wrestling in Pennsylvania. The reason given is that the tossing of bodily bodies through the air willily-illy endangers the lives of the customers. The idea back of the theory possibly is that without customers there would be no wrestling. Some arrangements certainly have to be made to keep the paying clientele alive.

IRISH POLITICS

The story behind Notre Dame's discontinuance of the practice of electing football captains is sent along by an old grad.... It centers around Paul Host, 1932 captain.... In 1930, Host's last year, Host and Kosky were rivals for an end position.... Host finally won the job, but injuries kept him out of the important Army and Southern California games.... In the following year Coach Anderson made Kosky regular left end.... Players believed Host a victim of Host's favoritism.... so at the close of the season, they gave Host a nice kick in the pants by electing Host captain in '32.

But Anderson kept Kosky at left end just the same.... and tried to make a right end out of the captain.... however, right end at Notre Dame is a very specialized job.... and Devere was a better fight end than Host.... from that situation there grew so much unrest that it was finally decided to name a captain before each game in 1933, taking the choice out of the players' hands.

JOE BURNS UP

Boy, oh boy, is Joe Jacobs burning up! The other day Matchmaker Jimmy Johnston, of Madison Square Garden, received a cablegram from Jeff Dickson, Parisian promoter, notifying him that Joe no longer was Jeff's American representative.

Joe says all he did for Dickson was to try to get him a couple of fighters, which cost him many bucks in expenses for which he never has been reimbursed.

Schmeling's manager further avers that Dickson is sore because Jack Dempsey grabbed off the Baer-Schmeling fight, freezing Jeff out. And what's more, says Joe, Jack Dempsey is going to be the biggest-shot promoter in the country within one year.

BIG LEAGUE TEAMS UNHURT BY TREMORS

LOS ANGELES, Mar. 11.—(INS)—Major league baseball players undergoing spring training in this area today were reported to have escaped unhurt in the devastating Southern California earthquake.

The Giants and Cubs, meeting at Wrigley Field in Los Angeles, were in an area that suffered little, while the White Sox at Pasadena were only on the fringe of the shocks.

Santa Barbara In Prep Hoop Finals

POMONA, March 11.—(UP)—Santa Barbara high school defeated Pomona H. S. 24 to 24, in the semi-finals of the Southern California Intercollegiate federation last night.

Herbert Hoover H. S. of Glendale managed a close victory over Herbert Hoover of San Diego, 26 to 20.

Herbert Hoover of Glendale will face Santa Barbara for the championship tonight.

BOWLING NEWS

COLUMBUS, O., March 11.—(INS)—The 23rd annual tournament of the American Bowling Congress left the preliminary stage today and began recording scores big enough to win some of the $60,000 prize money.

With games of 911, 988 and 866, the Independent Supply company team of Columbus, one of several hundred local "booster" teams, rolled into the leadership of the five-man division. Its 2765 total was believed to have assured it a slice of the prize awards.

SAINTS RALLY NIPS WILSON, 8-7

JACK DEMPSEY AND GARDEN IN FINISH FIGHT

BY HENRY LEMORE

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, March 11.—(UP)—

Jimmy Johnston, the cocky little cockney, has been called boxing's brightest mind—the smoothest, shickest, toughest little job in a mean and dirty business.

But is he? That's an unanswerable question today, but three months from now we'll be able to tell you yes or no. For in the next 90 days the boy bandit, sinister J. Johnston, and the king knower, to give Johnston a few of his nicknames, will have a chance to prove whether he's head man.

Johnston must lead Madison

Square Garden to victory over

Jack Dempsey and his Max

Schmeling-Max Baer fight. Dempsey yesterday obtained approval of June 1 as a date and it was interpreted as meaning that he had pretty well eliminated Chicago, Philadelphia and Cleveland

from his plans.

In beating the Garden to the punch in the matter of a date,

Dempsey placed Johnston in a bit of a hole. New York, sporting as it is, won't support two big heavyweight battles in one month. And May, packed too much unsettled weather to make an outdoor bout anything but a gamble.

So what is Johnston going to do with his bout between Champion

Sharkey and Primo Carnera, the ponderous one?

Will he gamble on a May date,

trusting the elements to furnish him with a warm, clear night? Or will he schedule it for the middle of June and depend on a scor-

ching halfway campaign to rack

the big Long Island saucer, hard on the heels of the Baer-Schmeling fight?

No matter what course he chooses, Johnston is going to need all his promotional skill and political pull to make a go of it.

For don't forget this—Johnston hasn't got the fight Dempsey has.

Not by any stretch of the imagination is a fight between Sharkey and Carnera as attractive as a mix-up between the two slugging

Maxes. Sharkey is champion, yes, but a dull and uninteresting one.

In Dempsey, Johnston backs a man whose name still pulls 'em

through the turnstiles.

If Johnston beats this combine —beats them with an admittedly weaker attraction—then we say

call out the stone cutters and tell

'em to chip the boy bandit's name into boxing immortals.

Max Rosenbloom Defeats Houser, Keeps His Title

NEW YORK, March 11.—(UP)—Max Rosenbloom, slapping and cuffing like a bored bobcat, successfully defended his light heavyweight championship last night by taking a 15-round decision over Dolph Heuser, the bulldog of the Rhine.

Thirteen thousand fans at Madison Square Garden, saw Maxie come from behind in the latter half of the bout with an amazing show of stamina.

He retained his claims to New York state's portion of the world crown through the unanimous decision of the three officials, having earned seven rounds to Heuser's five, with three even according to the United Press score sheet.

HENRYS BEATEN BY TULSA FIVE IN TITLE PLAY

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 11.—(UP)—A new basketball champion will wear the National crown tonight. The Diamond D-X Oilers of Tulsa or the Rosenbergs-Arveys of Chicago will have the honor.

The old champions, the Wichita Henrys, lost their place in the title running at the National A. A. U. meet here last night when they took a 34 to 20 drubbing from the Oilers.

The result robbed them of their fourth consecutive National title.

In the other semi-final contest the Rosenbergs-Arvey quintet defeated the Southern Kansas State

Lines of Kansas City 24 to 24.

The Oilers deserved their victory.

They were the Henrys' masters all the way. At half time they led the scoring, 17 to 8.

The other semi-final was a hectic affair. In the last minutes the count was tied at 25-up, showing just how close the contest had been all the way.

At the half it was 18 to 14. And everyone knew the game was not on ice.

high on the pillar reserved for boxing immortals.

PHIL WRIGLEY TO KEEP HANDS OFF CUB TEAM

CHICAGO, March 11.—(INS)—Where the late William Wrigley, Jr., was so dominant in the activities of the Chicago Cubs, his son Philip K., who inherited the team has signified his intention of passing the task on the President Bill Veeck and manager Charley Grimm.

Convinced that Veeck and Grimm have been successful in guiding the team's destinies since the death of his father, Philip plans to take no active supervision. He admits he knows nothing of the game's finer points but intends to learn at Catalina this spring.

Perhaps it would have been just as well for the Cubs, if the father, with all his millions, had been as smart.

It was old man Wrigley who paved the way for Joe McCarthy's departure from the team and placed Rogers Hornsby in the position of manager.

Wrigley concluded that Hornsby was better suited for the job than McCarthy after a long series of pow-wows during which the two analyzed the team's weaknesses after every game. McCarthy, who had compiled an enviable record with the club was never present at these post-mortem sessions. He knew they were going on but could do nothing about it.

When the owner of a club discusses the team's activities with the second baseman and disregards the manager, only one conclusion is left, and that's what happened to McCarthy. He was out and Hornsby went in. All this despite the fact that Joe had won a pennant for the club in 1929 after pulling it up into the first division in the three previous seasons.

The Cubs finished second in 1930 with a team that McCarthy kept tied together to prevent it falling apart. Yet, that feat was overlooked and he found himself on the sidewalk.

McCarthy went to the Yankees and his first season there, 1931, the New York team wound up in second place. The club had not been highly regarded that year and McCarthy's work was all the more creditable.

What happened in 1932 is recent baseball history, but the Yankees under McCarthy breezed through the American league pennant with something like 13 games to spare. What happened in the world series when the Yankees led by the same McCarthy won four straight, is a sore subject with the Cubs.

Yes, sir, maybe Philip is smart, letting Veeck and Grimm run the club and confining himself to a trip every year to Catalina Island in the role of a mildly interested owner.

'Pop' Tells Scheme for New Huddle

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Mar. 11.—(INS)—Glenn Scoby ("Pop") Warner, now known in these parts as the "Gentleman from Philadelphia," today discussed the 1932 edition of the Warner system with "Tiny" Thornhill, successor to Warner as head grid coach at Stanford.

Warner, now mentor at Temple university, will depart for Philadelphia March 20 to open spring football practice there seven days later, he said. Meanwhile, with Thornhill's aid, Warner will perfect his new plays and formations in the Stanford "grid laboratory."

Chief among the innovations of the Warner system for next fall is a new huddle system, Warner explained.

The new huddle is expected to provide deception in the spotting of backfield men and is also designed to speed up the time between signal-calling and ball-snapping.

In the new huddle, Warner said, the eleven will move quickly to their usual positions but the left halfback may be found at fullback or the quarter at left halfback on a particular play.

It will not resemble, however, the Howard Jones huddle employed at Southern California.

Warner will continue to use the line shift despite the full second stop requirement. His famous old "Formation A," with a few variations, will be used at Temple this season.

Fifty candidates for the Temple eleven, chosen by Henry Miller, last year's head coach, will greet Warner at the spring practice opening. Miller is remaining as end coach.

The standout attraction pairs the league-leading Hancock Oilers of Santa Ana and the second-place Huntington Beach club.

Hancock Oil can clinch the second half with a victory, and Captain "Bono" Koral will send his ace pitcher, Cliff Miller, against the club which won the first half.

Laguna Beach and Santa Anita meet on the East First street grounds, Santa Ana.

Santa Ana's Southern California league team will not play tomorrow.

DOLLAR SPORTS COMING BACK: BOSSES LEARN

By DAVIS J. WALSH I.N.S. Sports Editor

NEW YORK, March 11.—Inch by painful inch, we're coming to the dollar-limit game in that strange, illogical business known loosely and not always accurately as sport.

We're not there yet. Some of us still have the mistaken impression that the chump still flourishes, completely overlooking the fact that a chump without money is, to all practical purposes, no chump at all. We haven't fully realized yet that the inevitable rate of exchange between an amusement and the buying public in the days to come is the once insignificant but fast dwindling one-dollar bill.

The matter is relatively simple. In the old days, the buying public was represented in about equal parts by money and enthusiasm. They still have the enthusiasm.

As a matter of fact, they still have the one-dollar bill and I trust I won't be called upon to go into unnecessary detail about the comparatively superiority of 10,000 people at one dollar over nobody at ten dollars.

Boxing is getting the idea gradually, with its one to three dollar prices for ordinary shows, although likely enough it must go further than that. I should say that it may yet come to understand that the ordinary show won't do, because by that time three dollars won't be an ordinary price. Hockey, always progressive, has done much better. It'll let you in for less than a dollar and give you the best seat in the place for $2.40. Moreover, it gives a good show always.

So does football and most of its meetings next year will be one-dollar games with not too much more on the "top." Baseball, of course, has been the "poor man's game" for years and can't be expected to go much further about it, yet I suspect that the return of the 25-cent bleacher section will not be far away.

That admittedly is only a guess. But this isn't. Sports promotion must come to the people before the people can come to it.

Bob Kiesel, California's sprint star, is resting a weak leg muscle and is not slated to compete.

FIVE RUNS IN EIGHTH FRAME DECIDE MATCH

One good rally in the eighth inning meant the difference between victory and defeat for Coach Bill Foote's Saints at Poly field yesterday, and accounted for an 8 to 7 win for Santa Ana Hi in a practice baseball game with Long Beach Woodrow Wilson.

With varied support at important intervals, the rival pitchers—Gordon Mallett of the Saints, Gene Cochran of the visitors—tossed on individual skill to pull themselves out of the tough spots, but both showed streaks of wildness which partially offset their work of striking out 10 and 11 hitters, respectively.

Trailing by two runs as they entered their part of the eighth, the Saints tallied five times on three hits to pull the game out of the fire. Jesse Ojeda, catcher, sent a sizzling double to right field, and Francis Conrad, third baseman, followed with a triple into deep center to open the attack. Jones, Bingle, Nitta and Klepper brought in the other scores, after Conrad was forced at the plate on a fielder's choice.

After two were away in the first inning, Wilson loaded the bases with a fielder's choice, an error and a walk, but Conrad threw Hales out at first to retire the visitors. The Saints held Long Beach scoreless until the sixth inning, when an error, two stolen bases, and a single accounted for a Wilson run. The visitors then crossed the plate twice in each of the three remaining innings, but a snappy double play—Bingle to Wimbush to Jones—ruined Long Beach in the ninth, with the score at 7-8.

The Saints did well in their first game, especially on offense. Six errors and all-around poor fielding marred their defensive work, but Coach Foote is confident his men will improve rapidly.

With a triple, double and single in four times at bat, Conrad chalked up the best record of the game, while Santa Ana's three new sophomores returned—Ojeda, Bingle and Jones—regards in a fine performance.

CALIFORNIA TRACK MEN BEGIN SEASON

BERKELEY, Mar. 11.—(INS)—Brutus Hamilton, new track and field coach for the University of California, will put his first Golden Bears on display here today against the University of San Francisco.

The meet should be a toss-up, U. S. F. taking a beating last week from Stanford and California having few men who look capable of getting any place against high class performers.

300 Avocado Growers At Institute In La Habra

SOIL EXPERTS GIVE TALKS AT ANNUAL MEET

LA HABRA, March 11.—More than 300 avocado growers of Southern California attended the third avocado institute held at the La Habra Washington school Friday. The morning session of the one-day institute began at 9:30 a. m. with Austin Marshburn, chairman of the avocado department of the Orange County Farm bureau, as master of ceremonies and Judge A. C. Farley giving the address of welcome.

J. G. France, farm advisor of San Diego county, spoke on "The Present Status of the Industry" and said that profits might be increased to the avocado grower, if expensive methods of cultivation, irrigation and marketing cost were cut. A thorough study of the individual grove and conditions was necessary that this program be carried out intelligently, he said.

Harold Wahlberg, farm advisor of Orange county, spoke on "Increasing Profits by Reducing Costs" and with the aid of charts prepared on this subject showed that labor and material costs had been reduced during the past year. Costs can be reduced, he said, by a careful study.

Prof. S. H. Beckett, of the citrus experiment station, in his address on "Influence of Soil Type on Time and Depth of Irrigation," said that there was no short cut to good irrigation practice. Avocados, he said, are susceptible to over irrigation and a close study of soil conditions is necessary for intelligent irrigation of groves.

C. H. Richards, manager of the La Habra Heights Water company, gave data concerning the amount of water furnished by the company the past year to the 1500 acres of avocados and his subject was "The Duty of Water for Avocados."

Beginning the afternoon session, H. L. McKemie, of the Citrus Experiment station, gave an illustrated lecture on "Latest Developments in Avocado Pest Control." Slides illustrating the various stages of the insects that thrive on the avocado trees and fruit were shown and control methods explained.

Prof. Dean Palmer of the Citrus Experiment station spoke in place of Dr. W. T. Horne, of the station, who was unable to be present. His topic was "The Latest Development in Avocado Disease Control." Mr. Palmer described the disease, how it is detected, its effects and remedies that are in use.

"The Interrelation of Soil Management Practices" was discussed at length by W. R. Schoonover, extension specialist. He said there were two important functions in the soil, one as a reservoir for storage water, and the other as a source of supply for plant nutrients.

George B. Hodgkin, general manager, and Edwin Humason, sales manager for Calavo Growers' association, presented figures and statistics in a dialogue presentation of the activities in marketing and advertising the California avocado in local and eastern markets.

During the noon hour the La Habra P. T. A. served a luncheon at which 160 were seated at the tables in the school cafeteria. Boys and girls of the La Habra A. C. club acted as ushers, guides and registrars for the session.

SUNSET BEACH

SUNSET BEACH, March 11.—The Misses Betty and Katherine Dee entertained as luncheon guests Friday Miss Margaret Harper of Long Beach and Miss Helen Markham of Seal Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. H. N. James of Hollywood spent the week end in their cottage. They were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Jones and son, Robert, of Los Angeles.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Alvord and daughter, Miss Elizabeth, spent the week end with Mr. Alvord's mother, Mrs. Coda Arncliffe.

Mrs. Ella Hall of Bay View drive, left Sunday to spend a month in Santa Barbara with her daughter.

C. H. Graham's new 14-foot yawl was launched Sunday. It will be moored at Al's Landing. The boat was built for his sons, Jake and Charles Jr.

Mrs. Ada Jenkins of Los Angeles was a week end guest in the home of her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Jenkins. Miss Betty Dee spent the week end in Los Angeles as a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Scott Campbell. The Campbells are summer residents of Sunset Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. D. R. McNaught and small daughter of Glendale are spending a few days in their home on Ocean front.

Quake Sermon Planned By Pastor Sunday

ORANGE, March 11.—The earthquake shook the Rev. Franklin H. Minck, pastor of the Orange Christian church out of a sermon he had planned for Sunday morning, on "Envy." Instead he will preach on "The Earthquake Helps to Understand the Bible." Included in the message will be questions, "Was Long Beach more sinful than Orange?" "Did God's Wrath Wreck Those Cities?" The Rev. Mr. Minck said: "This will be a sane and sensible Bible message. There will be so much foolish religious talk about this calamity that I felt moved to speak on it." The evening service will feature the stereoscopic slide and large print of the American Picture of Christ painted by Col. Henry Stanley Todd.

MIDWAY CITY

MIDWAY CITY, March 11.—The Rev. Peter Jurich and family were recent callers in Midway City. The Rev. Mr. Jurich is an evangelist for the Nazarene church and a few months ago spoke in the local pulp.

Leaving Tuesday morning for their home in Whittemore, Ia., Mr. and Mrs. Henry Felter completed a visit in the home of Mrs. Felter's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Esser. Mr. and Mrs. Felter are making the eastern trip in company with Mr. Felter's nephew, the Rev. Father Dahoff, with whom they came to this state. Robert Keller visited his father in a Los Angeles hospital this week.

Mr. and Mrs. George Luff were visitors in San Bernardino over the week end and returning, were accompanied by a niece of Mrs. Luff, who is a visitor from New York.

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Beardsley and three children are new residents of Midway City, having taken the Carl Huyler home on Roosevelt street. Mr. and Mrs. Huyler have moved to a house on Jackson street.

ATWOOD

ATWOOD, March 11.—Howard Baston, of Fullerton, and Frances Gendar spent Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Evon Baston, of Pomona.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Hanney entertained Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Mondotte and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Bryant with a card party here recently.

Mr. and Mrs. John L. Carr and daughter, Ruth, spent Sunday in San Pedro visiting Mrs. Bessie Smith. They went aboard "Old Ironsides" while at the harbor.

Mrs. Ann L. Clayton and son, Howard, of San Pedro, are spending a few days with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Harry A. Learlay.

Mrs. Harry W. Gendar attended a St. Patrick's party at the Presbyterian church Tuesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. John L. Carr and daughter, Ruth, and son, George, and Frances Gendar spent Wednesday evening in Los Angeles.

Mrs. Ray Dodson spent Monday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William French, in Fullerton.

OLINDA

OLIVE, March 11.—Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Schryer spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. J. Bowl in Temple City.

Mr. and Mrs. William Senclair, of Brea, and Mr. and Mrs. James Hitchcock and daughter, Mildred, and son, Jimmie, of Torrance, spent Sunday in Palm Springs.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Schriber and family spent Sunday viewing "Old Ironsides."

Mr. and Mrs. Mark Clark and son, Conley, and daughter, Dorothy, and Jean and Dorothy Boyd of Fullerton, spent Saturday at "Old Ironsides."

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Bennett and son, Leonard, and Effie Findley spent Friday with Mr. and Mrs. Al Dardon and family in La Habra.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Pittam, of Riverside, were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lusch.

Jim Bloom, of City Creek, spent Friday with his brother, Bill Bloom.

CLUB IN PARTY

TUSTIN, March 11.—The regular meeting of the Coreopsis club was held Wednesday afternoon in the pretty home of Mrs. D. M. Forney, with the saw puzzles providing the entertainment. First and second prizes were awarded to Mrs. Sarah Matthews and Mrs. Harry Pieper.

Mrs. Forney, assisted by her daughter, Mrs. Howard F. Nason, served refreshments of sandwiches, fruit jello with whipped cream, cake and coffee, to Mrs. Harry Pieper, Mrs. Jennie Beckman, Mrs. Nannie Myers, Mrs. Sarah Matthews, Mrs. J. H. Pankey and Mrs. Pearl Furtch.

PROGRAM GIVEN BY FATHERS AT P. - T. A. MEET

ORANGE, March 11.—Members of the American Legion Auxiliary will meet Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock in Legion hall, with Mrs. Dolores Goodwin, president, in charge. The Mother's Club will meet in the morning for sewing, followed by a covered-dish luncheon at noon.

IZAAK WALTON LEAGUE TAKES IN NEW GROUP

ANAHEIM, March 11.—Ninety members and friends of the Anaheim chapter Izaak Walton League were present in the Knights of Pythias hall Thursday night to see the induction of 57 new members into the local chapter. The intensive membership drive that was to have closed last night, has been extended another month upon the request of the captains of both teams, William Patton and Marion Henry.

The captains reported that 33 others have signed application cards and are ready to come into the sportsman's club as soon as the bank situation is relieved. Captain Henry and his team brought in 42 out of the 57 new members. They were welcomed into the club by John C. Gregory, president of the Fullerton chapter.

Jack Boaz of the educational department of the state division of fish and game was present to give an enlightening talk on the work of his department and its relation to the sportsman. He then showed three reels of motion pictures depicting many phases of wild life.

Attorney W. V. Anderson, president of the Hollywood chapter talked on the activities of the Izaak Walton League. William Trapp, Jr., president of the local chapter, presided over the business session. The evening was concluded with the serving of sandwiches and coffee.

This announcement was made at the avocado institute held in La Habra Friday, at which time Judge Halm invited growers present to exhibit fruit at the show.

Judge Halm is vice president of the California avocado association and a director of the Calavo Growers' organization.

Expect Big Crowd At Benefit Dinner

ORANGE, March 11.—A large group is expected to be in attendance tonight at the Plunkett dinner to be given at the Epworth hall of the First Methodist church. Four reels of film are to be shown after the dinner and the entertainment will be included in the sum paid for the dinner. Funds from the affair are to be given to the missionary society of the church.

Educator In Talk At Hi-Y Meeting

ORANGE, March 11.—Members of the Hi-Y listened to an instructive talk given at the First Presbyterian church Friday evening by M. M. Fishback, assistant principal of the Orange Union high school, on "Why I Am a Teacher." The week previous a talk was given the group by Martell Thompson on spoke on "Why I Am a Lawyer."

CRISIS IN FAR EAST TOPIC OF TALK IN BREA

BREA, March 11.—Sixty members and friends of the Congregational church gathered there on Wednesday night for the fellowship dinner, served by a committee comprising Mrs. C. C. Polkemer, Mrs. C. C. Jarvis, Mrs. Donald Gaylord and Mrs. Leland Gordon.

Several remained for the mid-week meeting when the pastor, Rev. Donald F. Gaylord spoke on the topic "Will There Be War in the Far East?"

The Rev. Mr. Gaylord declared the situation in the Far East is dangerous and that for the present victory seems in the hands of the Japanese though ultimately, he believed, that country would be defeated through her own financial weakness.

The United States, he said, is inviting war by keeping her navy on the Pacific Coast, by increasing her navy and by fortifying Pearl Harbor. Hyateria and over-imagination, he said, is creating in the American mind the same unwarranted suspicion of the average Japanese that we had of the German in 1916 and the few years following.

WESTMINSTER WINS

WESTMINSTER, March 11.—The lightweight indoor baseball team of fifth and sixth grade girls of Westminster school won in a game with Oceanview girls at Oceanview school field by a score of 14-8.

Members of this team are: Catcher, Anna Cannon; pitcher, Kazuko Uchida; first base, Nika Pace; second base, Winifred Walton; third base, Dorothy Monroe; short stops, Martha Hecksle and Betty Hallow; fielders, Leona Westline, Betty Shipley and Linda McDaniel with Sakae Masuda as substitute.

HouseholdLong Beach Hostess
Entertains Bridge
Club Group

Friday afternoon bridge club members anticipated their customary meeting day by twenty-four hours, when they motored yesterday afternoon to Long Beach, there to enjoy the hospitality of Mrs. R. E. Couch, formerly of this city.

Mrs. Couch had arranged to entertain her guests in Hotel Robinson where the luncheon hour of green and white appointments suggested the month's popular Irish holiday. Club members remained at the hotel for the afternoon bridge series, in which the three high scores were made by Mrs. Jay Jewell, Mrs. J. A. Wright and Mrs. W. W. Kays. The gifts were, in the same order, a clever radio lamp, a graceful large vase and a dainty bud vase.

Mrs. Francis Jacoby was a special guest of Mrs. Couch, while club members enjoying her hospitality were Mesdames E. C. Read, Lee Boyle, J. A. Wright, J. H. Turtan, Roy Gowdy, A. W. Sanford, J. L. McBride, Eugene Reif, W. W. Kays and Ray Jewell.

Dramatic Interpreter
To Be Heard Here

Something distinctive in the way of spoken entertainment is assured Santa Ana drama lovers in the play recital to be presented Monday night at 8:15 o'clock in the Y. W. C. A. by Elizabeth Pooler Rice of Boston, well known interpreter of drama. The performance will be a public one, with tickets procurable at the door.

Mrs. Rice, who, with her husband, has headed the Leland Powers School of the Spoken Word in Boston for nearly a score of years, has been cited by Leland Powers himself, as "the best woman reader of plays on the platform today." Her work is described as an "interpretation" rather than a "reading," as she never refers to a manuscript during a recital.

Program choices for Monday night promise to please, the two plays selected being a four-act comedy by Alfred Suro, "The Two Virtues," and a one-act play, "Lonsomelike," by Brighouse. The longer drama will be remembered as the vehicle of E. H. Sothern on his farewell tour, and is described as affording "unusual opportunity for skillful delineation of character."

Santa Ana Attends
Hollywood Lecture

Mrs. B. H. Sharpless of Newport road, was among special guests at the latest meeting of La Camarada club in Hollywood, where she had the interesting experience of hearing her daughter, Ada May Sharpless, talented young Southland sculptress, address the clubwomen on the appreciation of sculpture.

Members of the club were warm in their expressions of appreciation for the information given in the talk, regarding the discrimination with which a study of the subject should be approached. In illustrating her talk, Miss Sharpless showed some of her own work and pictures of larger pieces which have been completed within the past few months, including that for the Los Angeles General hospital and the Cabrillo statue for the Bowers museum in this city.

Hostesses Use Pastel
Theme at Surprise
Shower

In complimenting Mrs. Howard McHenry Thursday evening, Mrs. Leonard Hamaker and Mrs. Earl R. Lepper gave a shower of unusual charm in the latter's home, 3208 Maple avenue. The hostesses had worked out every detail of the pleasant affair as a surprise to their honoree.

Pink, blue, orchid and yellow, the softest of pastel tints, provided the decorative color scheme for the evening. Bouquets of sweet peas were in orchid and pink. As the large number of guests assembled for the occasion, their gifts for Mrs. McHenry were placed on a table adorned appropriately with pink and blue parasols and a tall stork. The daintily wrapped packages were presented early in the evening.

After several rounds of coffee, prizes wrapped in pink and blue were presented Mrs. Kenneth Green for scoring high and to Mrs. W. G. Loughboro of Yorba Linda, low.

Decorations for the refreshment hour following were especially pretty, including gay little flower pot containers in which ice cream was served. Favors were tiny dolls in fluffy crepe paper dresses. These present, other than the honoree, Mrs. McHenry, and the hostesses, Mrs. Lepper and Mrs. Hamaker, were Mesdames Fred Hansen, L. H. Musick, W. M. Lindsey, L. A. Endres, S. D. Mesinger, C. Reid, T. S. Pratt, Richard Metz, E. R. Adelman, James E. Province, N. H. Cowdrey, G. C. McClain, C. J. Smith, Floyd Nelson, L. V. Brown, James Sullivan, L. R. Musick, Herbert Birt, J. N. de Groot, H. Co-hostesses Preside
At Bridge Party

Mrs. Albert Laughlin and Miss Edna Laughlin were co-hostesses recently at a pleasant bridge evening when they entertained a group of friends in their home, 1425 Cypress avenue. Sweet peas were used to brighten the rooms of the home for the occasion.

Bridge proved an interesting diversion, with prize awards for scoring high and low going to Miss Dorothy Oarr and Mrs. Doreen Upson. Card tables were daintily appointed for the serving of appetizing refreshments at the close of the evening.

Guests included the Misses Dora Tedford, Dolly Cox, Georgia Pennock, Helen Kline, Lois Chapman, Dorothy Oarr and Mrs. Doreen Upson, with the hostesses, Mrs. Laughlin and Miss Laughlin.

Young People Share
In Dinner Party

The Misses Mary Jane McKinley and Isabel Cummings joined in entertaining a group of young people at a merry dinner party recently in the latter's home, 617 Garfield street. Pretty flowers of the season were used in decorating for the occasion.

Following dinner, dancing was enjoyed and there were interesting games for the entertainment of the guests.

Those present were the Misses Isabel Cummings, Mary Jane McKinley, Marion Smith, Cora Cummings, Eva Cummings, Rose Ellen Cummings and Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Cummings; Messrs. Harold Moody, Earl Voeuburg, Bob Rogers, Clinton Jones and Frank Dumb.

Parent-Teachers

A play, "The Conflict," directed by Mrs. M. E. Geeting, was put on Tuesday afternoon at a monthly meeting of Frances Willard P. T. A., held in the school auditorium. Mrs. T. R. Trawick, president, gave a synopsis preceding the production, bringing up questions for members to keep in mind for discussion after the play.

The cast included Mrs. Geeting as the mother; Ruth Baker as Bees, the younger daughter; June Arnold as Emmie, the eldest daughter; Clark Hopeman as Bob, the son.

Following the group posed for a picture taken by Mrs. Golden Norwood Weston, who is preparing a film on student life for Willard.

WEEKLY SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Ministrations Of Jesus

Text: Mark: 6:32-44
The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for March 12.

BY WM. E. GILROY, D. D.
Editor of the Congregationalist.
From the miracles of healing and restoration to life, we turn now to the miracle of feeding the multitudes. Here again it is useless to seek either to explain the miracle or to explain it away. If we could explain it, it would be no miracle, and it stands in the record as part of the marvelous story of the wonderful life of Jesus. For us its significance is in its symbolism of the power of Jesus to feed the soul. He is the Bread of Life, and what he offers is abundant for the satisfaction of all human hunger.

In its spiritual interpretation the story of the miracle of the feeding of the five thousand becomes very plain and significant. What is described as happening in connection with the few loaves and fishes is exactly what happens in the realm of spiritual food. The more of it we give, the more we have, and the more we share, the more it increases. We do not always appreciate that fact, but it is the miracle of grace.

The economy of the kingdom of Heaven is an economy of abundance. It is in service that men find mastery over their own souls and over the souls of their fellow men. It is in sacrifice that they find strength and new resources.

It is in passing on to others all that God has given them that they find an increase in their own heritage of spiritual worth and truth.

This was the supreme greatness of Jesus. Above all others he had discovered the power to give, and through this consecration to the Father's will God gave "not the spirit by measure unto him." A significant phrase concerning Jesus is that he "emptied himself," and in this emptying himself of all that earth might have valued, he revealed to the world the fullness of the divine character and grace. Thus it is that Jesus taught his disciples, and teaches us, the way to life through ministering. It is not by a selfish attitude in which we expect to receive that we grow strong and partake of the character of God; it is not by having others minister to us; but it is by ministering to others that we attain the true life. "The son of man came not to be ministered unto, but to minister and to give his life a ransom for many."

The deepest note in Jesus, as he looked out upon his fellow men, was the note of compassion. How can one view the world of modern men with sincerity and truth without feeling deeper than everything else that same compassion? We are still in a world that is full of sin, and want, and suffering, and misery.

View it through the rosiest spectacles that we may use, and unless our vision is very limited, or we are color blind, we cannot fail to see how deep is the need of humanity nor can our ears be deadened to the wall of want and woe that ascends from our fellow men.

There were those in the day of Jesus who were blind and deaf, who had never learned to share the life of the humanity of which they were a part. Jesus lived in a large and complete world because his compassion related him to every human being. He has given us the privilege of making our lives as broad and as deep as we choose through following his example of compassion and ministering.

COME to CHURCH

*Fortify Your Child
With the FAITH and COURAGE
that will enable him to carry a SMILE
through life*

WHO is there among us who can say to himself—"At all times I am happy, I am contented. I do no evil, and no evil is done unto me." No one. For this world is filled with bitter for sweet . . . with tribulation for joy. Yet in our hours of unrest and discontentment, if we have Faith and if we love man as He taught us to love our fellows . . . then we have found contentment of soul.

THE small child knows nothing of the world in which it must live . . . nothing of the unhappiness which may some day beset it . . . nothing of the daily problems which are part of every man's life. Give each child the Faith which can carry it through joy or through suffering. Teach that child that in the Church is peace and sanctity, and you will be easing the path of life for that child whom you love.

As the band of beetles gathered round and made a funny, buzzing sound. One cried, "What shall we do?"

"We have a prisoner and now I think we ought to show him how we scare all little fellows. Come, we'll show him something new."

"A war dance is the very thing. Come on, you beetles, let's all swing around him in a circle. Then we'll watch him squirm with fright."

The dance was started right away. To Duncy, though, 'twas merely play. In fact he quite enjoyed it. It was quite a thrilling sight.

The other Tynaries waited for wee Duncy for an hour or more. Then Scouty said, "There's some-

FLAPPER FANNY SAYS:

A man likes a bookish girl provided she's a cook-bookish.

"Well, Duncy took a beetle ride. He should be back here by our side." "Ah, ha!" exclaimed the wasp, "he is a prisoner, no doubt. A foxy bug, the beetle! Gee, you lads had better follow me. We'll hike to beetle village, just to see if Duncy's there."

The wasp then pulled his stinger sword. "Now, forward, charge," he loudly roared. "We may run into battle, but I really do not care."

(The wash surprises the beetles in the next story.)

BRIDGE ENJOYED

LA HABRA, March 11.—Young Matrons' club members were guests Wednesday afternoon of Mrs. Lester Bladwin, who used the St. Patrick motif in her decorations and luncheon appointments. The green color motif was off set with orchid flowers.

Prizes in the bridge games were awarded to Mrs. I. Thomas, first; Mrs. Ben Vandenberg, second; and Mrs. William Hibbard, low. Others present were Mrs. James B. Whitehead, Mrs. T. J. Abbott, Mrs. Stanley Davies and Mrs. Lambert Vandenberg.

ANN MEREDITH'S MIXING BOWL

EAT AND GROW SLIM

Dinner

Clam broth, large cupful
Vegetable plate
Small baked potato with shirred

Shrimp salad with mineral oil
mayonnaise
Black coffee or clear tea.
Calory total...505.

Clam broth for the family and for the dieting member can be made with skim milk. The family get theirs with a spoonful of whipped cream in the cup, while the dieting member comforts herself that one less spoonful of cream means one less curve.

The vegetable plate is the baked one described yesterday, or, it may be a collection of low calory vegetables (spinach, cauliflower, diced beets, cubed carrots) served with the baked potato and eggs.

The shrimp salad for the diet menu is taken out before dressing is added and the mineral oil dressing used.

TODAY'S RECIPES

Sandwich Loaf

Pullman Loaf

1 pound cottage cheese
1 can ripe olives
1/4 cup chopped walnuts
4 green onions
parsley minced
can of pimientos
mayonnaise ad lib.

Mash the cottage cheese, add the green onion finely minced with the tops included. Use enough mayonnaise to make a very moist dressing.

Stone the olives and grind them with the walnuts, or, buy the little packages of stoned ripe olives, so convenient, and add the nuts. Mix with mayonnaise also.

Cut off all crusts from loaf, reserving the bottom crust to use as a base for the re-building operations. If you are clever you will cut the loaf (the long way, not across like bread) into eight thin slices. Put the bottom one on the long crust, spread it first with mayonnaise, then with cottage cheese, put on the next slice, spread with mayonnaise and olive mixture, then so on, alternating fillings until the loaf has been re-built. Anchor with toothpicks and frost with remaining cheese and dots of mayonnaise.

The pimientos are cut in thin strips and used to decorate the top and sides, then finely minced parsley is strewn over the loaf, and it goes into the refrigerator until you are ready to serve it.

Slice down and serve just as you would cake.

These sandwich loaves are extremely rich. A slice 1/2 inch thick has an energy calory value of 225.

Questions pertaining to diet will be answered through this column. If a personal answer is requested enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Relief Corps

Members of Sedgwick, W.R.C., made plans to take part in special events of the near future when they met Wednesday afternoon in Pythian hall, Mrs. Julia Cozad, president, was in the chair. Sixteen officers and 15 members were present.

On Monday, March 13, members of the corps are to visit Old Ironsides at Long Beach, in observance of Grand Army and auxiliary day. On March 29, they are to visit a giant wisteria vine and other gardens in Sierra Madre, having received an invitation to take part in the tour, beginning at 3 p. m. This will be Daughters of Union Veterans day. The tour to Sierra Madre gardens begins March 17.

Mrs. Emma J. Burrie of Whittier W.R.C. was a guest, and gave a short talk.

It was reported that 43 calls had been made, 171 bouquets distributed, and 121 expended for child welfare work. Mrs. Viola Fipp, patriotic instructor, reported that a flag had been presented to Tustin Boy Scouts.

The next meeting of the corps will be on Wednesday, March 22, at which time a luncheon will be served.

Music Recital

Interesting plans for a piano and organ recital by music pupils of Miss Arline Birchard, were announced today by Miss Birchard who has designated the date of Monday evening, March 13, for the event. Pupils from Santa Ana, Anaheim and Westminster will be presented on this program which is to be given in the First Presbyterian church of Anaheim, beginning promptly at 7:45 o'clock.

As a special feature of the evening, J. B. Nield, one of the Southland's best known organists, is to be present and will be featured in one of the movements from a grand Concerto for organ and piano. Miss Birchard will be the piano. Mr. Nield is organist and choirmaster for Hollywood First Presbyterian church, and his talents are in high demand for radio programs. There will be many other special features next Monday night, including a whistling solo by Miss Carolyn Hillis. The recital will be open to all music lovers.

Help from the Sanctuary

There is always help in God's sanctuary. The help of confession is there and the assurance of pardon, worship to lift us above our fretted selves and fretting tasks, prayer to heal and praise to transform, instruction and inspiration and the fellowship of those who seek such things. Help may be sent from the sanctuary; for any good church is a source for flowing streams of blessing but we are most likely to get the help if we go for it. No one can go to church without being helped—or helping. The doors of the sanctuary are the open doors to peace and power.

Prayer: O Thou, whose ways and wisdom and love are the answers to all our needs, send us help, who need help so much from Thy sanctuary. Help us to seek forgiveness at Thine altars, to find strength in the fellowship of the aspiring and because we bow in prayer to be lifted up in strength. Make the place of Thy habitation glorious for us and through us. In His name Who sought Thy sanctuary and found it His Father's house. Amen.

THE TRANSPORTATION COMMITTEE REPORT

The report of the Transportation committee, headed by the late President Coolidge, is so much better a report than the doubters were led to expect, that it is worthy of consideration. It may be remembered that the Railroad Brotherhoods did not appear at any of the hearings. They felt that the committee was projected by bankers and the railroads to put something over. This refusal to appear before a group of men investigating a particular matter, by those who are suspicious or opposed, is coming to be a habit. Only last week, a speaker who was expressing his opposition to Unemployment insurance stated that he represented the Chamber of Commerce, and that that body did not even appear before a commission appointed to investigate the subject, because they knew it was a packed commission in favor of the plan. It is unfortunate that this suspicious attitude exists both among opponents and proponents of social and industrial questions which need clarifying.

The Transportation committee in its report condemns the inflated capital structures of most of the railroads, and demands that rates be based on efficient operation, which it believes does not exist, rather than to preserve the inflated capitalization. The committee urges that the railroads accept the competition of busses and waterways, and make an honest effort to meet it, rather than demanding a regulation of these competing agencies. The committee does not believe that the competition is as serious as the railroads claim.

The construction and the subsidizing of waterways by the Federal government is condemned. The committee holds that the railroads are equipped to do all the long-haul transportation business, and that it is unfair for the government to enter the field as a competitor. Four of the five members, Al Smith not concurring, oppose the construction of the St. Lawrence waterway. Air lines should be helped while in the process of development by the Federal government, but should be brought to self-support at the earliest possible time.

Mr. Smith is in general agreement with the views of the other four members of the committee, but he expresses himself with vigor against writing up values of railroad bonds and stocks because so many of them are the portfolios of trust funds, insurance companies and savings banks. That, he claims, is unjust to the public at large. Many railroad bonds, he claims, are worth less than part in the light of conditions aside from the depression. Stocks have much more declined in value, he states.

These are the essentials of the report. There are many other matters reviewed by the committee, but they are of a secondary nature. The wage question is specifically omitted from the report on the ground that it is provided for in another forum, over which the committee has no control. On the whole, it is a judicial report, and its recommendations should be studied with an impartial and an unprejudiced mind. The railroad problem is a serious one, and needs to be faced by the railroads and by the public alike in a spirit of honest inquiry.

CARRYING ON

The Register has been working under difficulties during the past 16 hours, and we have been trying to do our best to get out the news for the people.

The city, as we know, is under martial law, and quakes at this hour are reducing in frequency and in severity. Everything possible is being planned for the future. Monday, we understand, the banks will be open throughout the country, and probably in this city.

The amount of damage done is problematical. The city authorities, through Mayor Witmer, have already taken action looking for financial aid for rehabilitation. The same is true in Long Beach and other centers, and undoubtedly help will come to the stricken area.

Coming, just as this shock has, at what we believed to be the end of a depression, and the beginning of ascending business conditions, it seems to be a fitting climax to crush the hopes of the people, but it really is a climax which will act, undoubtedly, as a tremendous challenge to everybody to build better everywhere. Quakes determine the character of engineering work, and it is rather singular that the old school house on North Main street, that was condemned, is one of the few brick buildings that remains almost without injury, so that the Unemployed still have their habitation.

The modern buildings, recently constructed, were uninjured, but it certainly has raised havoc with the brick buildings. Three lost their lives in the city, and we are very happy that there were no more, and that there have been so few reports of any injuries. But our neighboring city of Long Beach is terribly stricken, and our sympathy goes out to her and her people, as in other stricken areas. As we have gone about this city, and also to Long Beach and other places, we feel that our officers in charge all deserve congratulations. While it is inconvenient in our regular duties, we know it is being done in the interest of the safety of us all.

THE RADIO COMPANIES INVADE THE PLATFORM

It is a very common announcement heard over the radio that the artist who "has just spoken to you or entertained you is available for clubs, churches or public entertainments anywhere."

We remember the time when a great mass of second-class mail reached us from Lyceum bureaus, Chautauqua agencies and private parties, calling our attention to lecturers, artists of all kinds, explorers, who might be obtained through them to serve our entertainment needs. That seems to be going into the discard. The broadcasting systems are beginning to pre-empt that field.

It is only another illustration of the changes that are going on in the commercial world. One-time flourishing organizations are being pushed to the wall by other organizations with a different technique, but with the same goods. There are always those who are determined to fight the innovation, and many who deplore. But in a competitive society this sort of thing must be expected, and the old can meet the challenge of the new only upon the open plain. The stronger, though it may not always be the better, will win. The paths of the past are scattered with the wrecks of enterprises and systems which have been swept aside by the new. The horse has been pushed off the road by the automobile, the individual by the corporation, the one-man shop by mass production. So it will continue.

DECREASE IN THE NATIONAL INCOME

According to statistics gathered by the National Industrial Board the national income for 1932 was 53 per cent less than it was during 1929. The average income of those who normally work was $1,067 in 1932 as against $1,763 in 1929.

These figures have broad implications. It accounts for the difficulty, for example, in balancing the national budget. With the large bulk of our national revenues derived from large incomes,—which last year were $1,056,756,697, and in 1929 were approximately $2,195,000,000,—we can see that there was a shrinkage of some 50 per cent. Expenditures have not decreased; in fact, they have somewhat increased during that period.

No wonder Congress has found it difficult to enact a revenue measure sufficiently comprehensive to cover this large difference in income. The sales tax might do it; but our people are strongly opposed to such a tax. Yet it almost seems, that if the budget is to be balanced, it cannot be done without a more general sales tax than has thus far been imposed. The beer tax, which was the chief argument of the "wets" to balance the budget, would bring at the most optimistic estimates not more than $125,000,000. This will do very little toward meeting the enormous deficiency growing up out of decreased incomes.

Art Goes Voyaging

Riverside Enterprise

Truly, these are strange times. For the past 50 years, art treasures of Europe have tended to gravitate to America. Chuckling behind her hand at the spurious, moaning loudly at the genuine, Europe has watched many of its olden art treasures drawn from the old shore by the golden magnet of America. Moral protest, embargo, counter-bidding, all were in vain. When America magnificently wanted art from Europe, they got it, with a capital A.

Now we see a curious spectacle. A French syndicate has been formed, with more than a million hard cash to be dispensed by Edouard Jonas, to buy back French art objects, paintings, furniture and sculpture and return them to Paris. He reports a ready market there, although he closed his New York gallery six months ago because no one was buying.

Like the flow of people from Europe to the United States, the flow of art is reversing itself. And the country to which it is returning is none other than France, which is reported to be showing a certain unwillingness to pay certain debts which certain creditors have been inartistic enough to feel that Frenchmen owe.

Well, we played the game when we had the cards. So we can't kick when the cards are running against us. Most people will feel that America can find more use for the money right now than the art.

Cycles

The Oakland Tribune

"Good times follow bad," say the veterans in New York's Wall Street, as they submit rather cheerfully to regulations and look out of the knowledge gained in experience to the inevitable shift toward the better.

Commendable sportsmanship? And yet it is one thing to accept with optimism the regular cycles, and another to labor intelligently to make the bad times less severe and, finally, to render their appearance impossible. Good times do follow bad, and it is to be hoped that when we welcome the next good ones we shall have learned enough to make their stay a long one.

CONFESSION

In vain do the manifold dramas of crime,
Which I constantly see on the screen,
Bend my timorous mind,
As the twig is inclined
To thoughts that are evil and mean.
For though I am shrinking, by habit of thought,
And belligerence have little skill in,
I'm allured by the art
Of the sinister part
Which is craftily played by the villain.

I envy his knowledge of poisonous drugs,
I envy his arrogant sneer,
I envy his calm
And unruffled aplomb
When a dangerous crisis is near.
I envy the heart which is plainly possessed
Of the traits that were native in Nero,
And I'm always distressed
When he don't get the best
Of the bragart and swashbuckling hero.

Yet I ever must walk in the straight narrow way,
I must always be timid and shy;
I would swerve from the right
With exceeding delight.
Yet I can't, and I do not know why.
I might make a name for myself in the world
If with courage I only were dowered;
Keen resentment I feel
When men call me genteel,
Which means I'm a terrible coward.

PARAGRAPHS

By Robert Quillen

How can the British tolerate that awful dote? In ten years it has cost them almost as much as our annual pension bill.

The English are a weak lot. Thousands of their war-disabled heroes die every year instead of increasing like ours.

Over-production must explain things. Public utility people never give any too much service and their prices haven't fallen.

Hint to ambitious Senators: A cabinet is a place to shelve things that are soon forgotten.

But can you show us the money you saved by not buying a new car?

MAYBE THERE ARE CHEERFUL INVALIDS WHO RADIATE SUNSHINE IN THE HOME, BUT THEY HAVEN'T GOT THE GRIPPE.

So live that you will feel only a polite interest when the crooked stranger claims to be an officer.

Japan is right. If a man turns bandit, it is only fair to resign from Sunday school.

How to end crime? Well, the assassin's lawyer had little chance because the public was on the other side.

AMERICANISM: Exporting films that portray American crime, lust and vice; wondering why foreigners feel amused contempt for Americans.

It's an even break. Thirteen years of Prohibition, and thirteen States can block repeal.

Shade of Washington! Experts call Zangara "irresponsible" because he is "incapable of telling anything but the truth."

IF HE SAYS BRIDGE IS A MORON GAME, HE MEANS THAT HE HATES ANY GAME AT WHICH HIS WIFE CAN BEAT HIM.

You see, pioneers made America because they didn't wait for the government to pass a law abolishing Indians.

Speaking of State rights, you can't thumb your nose at a rich man if you eat his bread.

Why this scorn of government? Well, nothing seems very impressive if you see too much of it.

Ladies, take warning. The most men see of law, the less they respect it.

Thoughts On Modern Life

By GLENN FRANK

THE DOMESTIC ALLOTMENT FOLLY

I do not believe we shall find solution of the farmer's difficulty by any scheme for the arbitrary reduction of the acreage used in our major crops of cotton, wheat, tobacco and corn.

To me it is incredible that, in a world of tragically unfilled need, statesmanship must set out on the Quixotic attempt to increase wealth by destroying property or declining to create it.

The domestic allotment type of farm legislation, reduced to its essence, is an attempt to solve the agricultural problem by modified famine on the installment plan.

Our ancestors fought valiantly over the centuries to conquer famine.

Are we now to say that the conquest has been too delicate?

After the sweat of generations has brought us out of an economics of scarcity into an economics of plenty, are we to confess that we are incapable of managing plenty, and seek to legislate scarcity?

I think history will pass bitter judgment upon us if, surrounded by a world of unfilled human need, we take this road in dealing with the difficulties now confronting our farms and our factories.

I am quite aware that human need is not effective economic demand unless it is equipped with purchasing power.

But it seems to me that it is the first obligation of public leadership, under an economics of plenty, to refuse to consider reversion even to a modified scarcity, until it has exhausted its ingenuity in devising ways and means of translating existing human need into effective economic demand.

The fact is we cannot rescue the American farmer from his plight by any specific farm legislation alone.

The fact is we cannot rescue the American farmer from his plight by any specific farm legislation alone.

What we do to effect a wider spread of buying power and what we do to clear the now clogged channels of world trade will mean more to the farmer than any direct farm legislation.

The domestic allotment type of legislation, if passed, will prove as great a folly for the Democratic party as the stabilization of the Federal Farm Board were for the Republican party.

Our Children

By Angela Patri

ANXIETY

Grown people press too hard on little children in their anxiety to serve them. The mother who sees that her child's appetite is failing is possessed by fear. She shows her concern in her face, in her tense hands, in her strained tones. "Eat your egg, dear. No, it isn't too soft. I watched it myself. Come. Eat one little mouthful. You will be sick if you don't eat your breakfast and what will I do then?"

That results in one or the other of two difficulties. Either the child enjoys the attention he is receiving and his consequent importance, or he is saddened by his mother's anxiety and feels guilty. Either result is harmful. But what can a mother do when she sees her child growing weak from hunger?

Fathers and mothers who see their adolescent children heading toward trouble are overcome by their anxiety and do the very thing they are struggling to prevent. "I tell you that you cannot go to those places. No decent boy or girl would want to do such things as you are doing. You'll not get a penny from me. I'll have nothing to do with such behavior. You're going to stay in the house from now on."

Children make mistakes and in fear and anger their parents threaten them, thunder the last word of outraged parental love at unheeding scornful ears. "Very well. Have it your own way. But when you go you stay. I never want to see your face again."

Anxiety makes us do these things. It is love gone mad. When we have had time to cool off, to get a better perspective, we are not so fearful, nor so angry. Maybe the things aren't so bad after all. Maybe he will eat, maybe he will settle down and do better, maybe the mistake is not irremediable after all. After all he is your child and we must find a way to help him. Then why not try to feel that way in the beginning and so avoid the crisis? Anxiety spreads. The child who lives, under its influence does not thrive as he should. The dread that this feeling breeds in the child's mind brings a train of evils. He is restless. He is hard to please. He takes up a toy only to lay it down again. He frets and whines without apparent reason. He loses what appetite he has and his behavior is distressing. This has come about because he has lived under the pressure of anxiety.

It is easy to say "Don't be anxious." We can't help being anxious about our children. They need help and often they make it impossible for us to help them. Nevertheless, we must try to keep fear out of our minds. We must, with all the power we can muster, express the thought of the great Teacher, "Let not your heart be troubled neither let it be afraid."

There is always a way. We can't find it if fear fills our thought. We can find it when faith and courage have their way. Children feel the influence of positive thoughts just as they feel the negative force of fears. Instead of saying, "I can't do a thing with him," know that you can help him once you get into the right line of communication. That means when your thought is filled with love and hope and courage. They can be had for the asking, for the taking. Just as you took fear take the better things and you will find life easier.

CONGRESS DOES 100 YEARS AGO AND MORE

The Continental Congress, 1783

Though seven states voted in the affirmative Congress defeated a move to consider the question of officers' pay. The vote of nine states was required.

Congress 100 Years Ago

Senate: Considered private and district bills.
House: Debated the revenue collection bill until 1:30 a. m. next morning.

Foster of Georgia said: "It is an attempt to give to the federal judiciary cognizance of criminal cases where a state is a party for which there is no warrant in the constitution."
